To mark time is to duplicate those that have preceded. To be inspired by the experience of others and guided by the fruits of their labors to a greater end is the true rudiment of progress.

Thus in THE 1926 HOWLER we attempt to paint Wake Forest in its steady and splendid progress. Our picture of Wake Forest we hope will be not as those on the outside often judge it, but as we know it to be.

Years dull and cloud the lesser events of our lives, but there are memories and associations that we would not have to pass from our grasp. If, when many years have fled by, this book shall awaken some spark, shall inspire some nobler feeling, shall kindle some fond memory of college days that will bring true enjoyment to one of our classmates, this book will have served its purpose. To this end we submit to you

SENIOR CLASS POEM

FOUR fleeting years are passed and gone,
Since first as freshmen bold,
We wrote our names with eager hand
On Alma Mater's scroll.

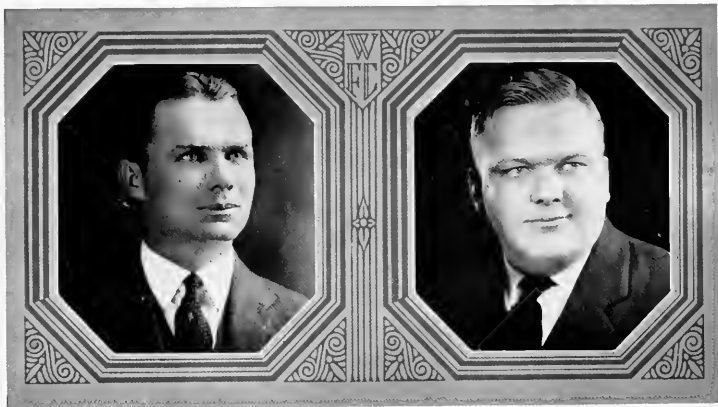

We've felt the thrill of college sports,
We've met defeat and sorrow,
We've had our dreams, we've cherished hopes
That vanished on the morrow.

But as we view the days now past
And all that time has wrought,
Our hearts are filled with gratitude
For what four years have brought.

Now, comrades true, we must be off
To play another game,
For those who leave these sacred walls
Must strive for meed of fame

Now is there yet a word unsaid
As we the conflict face?
Oh, yes—our praise can ne'er repay
The debt we owe this place.

—POET.

EUGENE L. ROBERTS, Ph.D.
Applicant for M. A. Degree
 DUDLEY, NORTH CAROLINA

"GENE"

Age 31, Weight 160, Height 5 ft. 7 ins.

The fact that "GENE's" Alma Mater has called him for a place on the faculty speaks for his scholarship. In 1922 ROBERTS was graduated with a cum laude; he continued this record at the Seminary, and bids fair to better it with a summa cum laude. While he was making high grades, he always found time to lend his talent to forensic activities and religious work.

ACTIVITIES: A. R. Wake Forest College, '22; Graduate Student, Baptist Theological Seminary '22-'23; Teacher, Wayne County Schools, '23-'24; Pastorale, '23-'24; Instructor in English, '25-'26.

CARROLL RANSOM HOLMES, Ed.
Applicant for B. S. Degree
 FARMVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

"SHERLOCK"

Age 23, Weight 215, Height 6 ft. 1 in.

"SHERLOCK" is a very unique character. During his first year HOLMES took a very active part in all college life and was one of the most popular men on the campus. Later he secluded himself from the many outside activities, but all through he managed to keep his popularity. Holmes is a man we predict will make a great success in business.

ACTIVITIES: Freshman Intercollegiate Debater (1); Society Day Debater (2); Vice-President Sophomore Class (3); Student Council (2); Secretary Intercollegiate Debate Council (3); Intercollegiate Debater (3).

JOHN CLEMMONS MASTEN, JR., Eu.

A H A

Applicant for B. A. Degree
WINSTON-SALEM, NORTH CAROLINA

"JOHNNY"

Age 22, Weight 144, Height 5 ft. 7 ins.

If Solomon had undertaken to write a proverb with JOHN as the text, he might have said: "A merry friend is more beneficial than many doctors, and jolly company than barrels of medicine." If our predictions are right, it will not take him long to get that cute little bungalow and three thousand dollars which he expects to have before getting married.

ACTIVITIES: Vice-President Wake Forest College Press Association (1); Old Gold and Black Staff (2); Assistant in Journalism (3); Society Day Marshal (3); Senior Critic Debating Section, Eu. Society (3); Class Historian (4).

WILLIAM P. RICHARDSON, Phi.

X Z X

Applicant for B. A. Med. Degree
MANNING, SOUTH CAROLINA

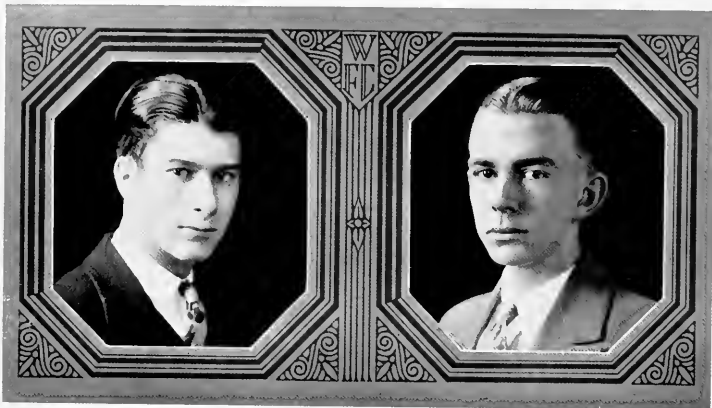

"QUO VADIS" "BILL"

Age 22, Weight 131, Height 5 ft. 10 ins.

"Quo Vadis," as he is known, stands at the top as a student, as a Christian gentleman, and as a friend. In spite of his heavy work as a medical student he is a leader in various college activities with honor to himself and his Alma Mater.

ACTIVITIES: Freshman Intercollegiate Debater (1); President Student Volunteer Band (2); President B. S. U. (3); South Carolina Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Golden Bough (3, 4); Wm. Edgar Marshall Medical Society (3, 4); Student Council (4); Assistant in Anatomy (4).

NORMAN STROUPE UPCHURCH, Phi.

Π Γ Σ

Applicant for B. S. Degree
YANCEYVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 21, Weight 125, Height 5 ft. 5 ins.

This little fellow is somewhat peculiar. During his four years at Wake Forest he has shown little interest in associating with the fair sex. He is yet young, and because of this fact we still entertain some hopes of him being vamped by some of Cupid's fairies. Should this event occur, we predict a brief courtship, and then the tying of the knot. UPCHURCH this year parts with many friends among the men if not a horde among the ladies.

ACTIVITIES: Education Club (3, 4); Class Baseball (3).

HENRY LAWRENCE SNUGGS, Ed.

Π Γ Σ, Κ Φ Κ

Applicant for B. A. Degree
ALBEMARLE, NORTH CAROLINA

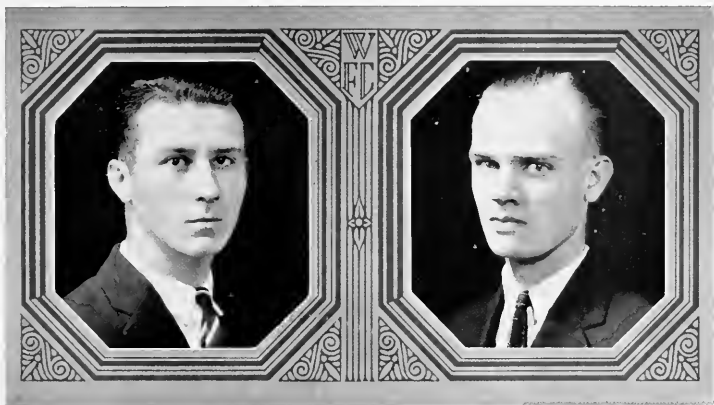

Age 21, Weight 140, Height 6 ft.

SNUGGS ranks as a real scholar. His college life prompts us to say:

*"Who misses or who wins the prize,
Go lose or conquer as you can;
But if you fall or if you rise,
Be each, pray God, a gentleman."*

ACTIVITIES: Secretary-Treasurer Sophomore Class (2); Society Day Marshal (2); Library Assistant (2, 3, 4); President Junior Class (3); Intercollegiate Debate Council (3); Assistant Manager Howler (3); Education Club (3, 4); Society Day Debater (3); Golden Bough (3, 4); Assistant in English (4); Student Council (4); Apud Marcestem (4).

ALBERTUS CLA STROUPE
Applicant for B. S. Degree
 MOUNT HOLLY, NORTH CAROLINA

"AL"

Age 20, Weight 165, Height 5 ft. 11 ins.

Mount Holly indeed feels proud of her foster child in his ever persistent stride upward. His late arrival at Wake Forest College does not make him any less admired by even others than those associated with him on "Slick's" English. If we may be prophetic, a serviceable and envious future awaits "Al," and the class wishes him Goal-peed.

ACTIVITIES: Class Baseball (3, 4); Boxing Class (3, 4).

WILLIAM GIBSON HARRIS
Applicant for B. A. Degree
 GIBSON, NORTH CAROLINA

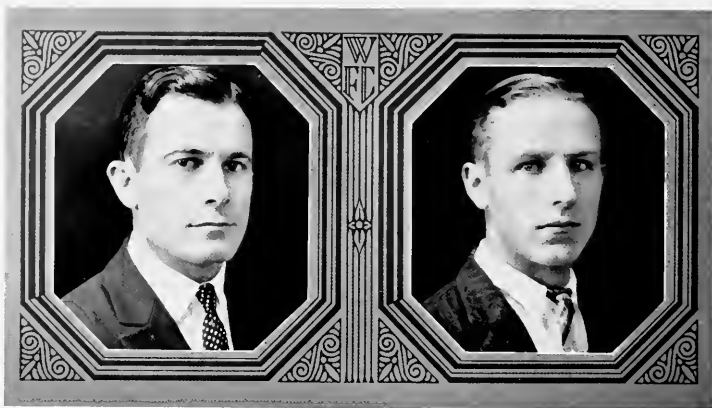

"SKY"

Age 19, Weight 142, Height 6 ft. 1 in.

"Sky" never did like the ladies very much so he took at first to the study of higher Math. He knew this would make him absolutely adored by the members of the fairer sex. He is much inclined toward the study of classical literature and reads much. His favorite authors are - well there's no use to name them; all college students know them.

HARRIS is a very congenial fellow and always carries a reserve supply of smiles. He is very studious and a jolly good fellow.

EDWIN RANDOLPH GRIFFIN
Applicant for B. A. Degree
 MARSHVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

"GRIF"

Age 23, Weight 170, Height 5 ft. 10 ins.

In "GRIF" we present to the world a student and a philosopher. He believes in getting to the bottom of things before considering them solved. Friendly, congenial, and a man with high ideals and principles, we have found in him the making of a real citizen. Thoroughness and dependability are among his attributes, both of which will contribute to the success that he will achieve when he enters upon the stage of the world's activities. "GRIF" is all right until someone mentions the ladies; then he loses his head—ladies beware!

MAHLON WINGATE DELOATCH, Esq.
 X Z X

Applicant for B. A. Med. Degree
 SEVERN, NORTH CAROLINA

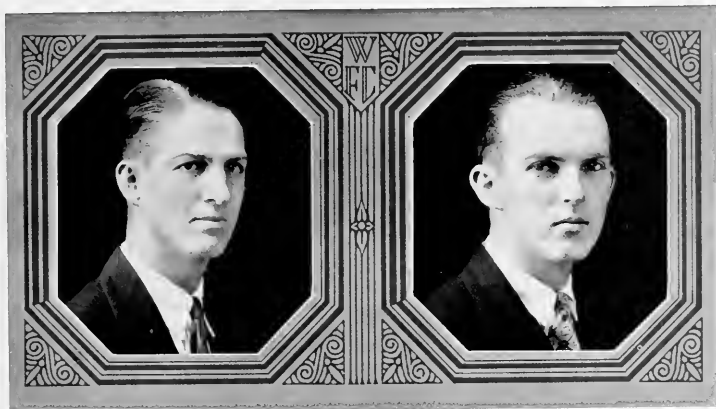

"SQUEEDUNK"

Age 21, Weight 158, Height 5 ft. 7 ins.

"SQUEEDUNK," as he is familiarly known to his friends, is noted for his unflinching good humor and his characteristic of never letting anything worry him. This genial characteristic, coupled with a high order of natural ability, ought to carry him far along the road of success and usefulness. "SQUEEDUNK" has been known to entertain three girls, whom he has just met, at one time and pick his "future" out of the bunch.

ACTIVITIES: Wm. Edgar Marshal Medical Society (3, 4).

JAMES OSCAR POWERS, Ph.D.

Κ Φ Κ
Applicant for E. A. Dearee
 WALLACE, NORTH CAROLINA
 "JIM" "FRESHMAN"

Age 20, Weight 135, Height 5 ft. 10 ins.

"JIM" has a winsome personality punctuated with a smile. Remembering the fun of his early childhood in throwing apples over the garden fence, "JIM," on his arrival at Wake Forest, readily took to the game of tennis. He found much joy in lambasting the sphere over the net, and he makes his exit this year as captain of the team. "Jim" has won many friends, and we all will remember him as a golden link in our chain of friendships formed here at Wake Forest.

ACTIVITIES: Class Baseball (1); Education Club (3, 4); Varsity Tennis (3, 4); Captain Tennis Team (4); Student Council (4).

CHARLES GORDON MADFREY, Ed.

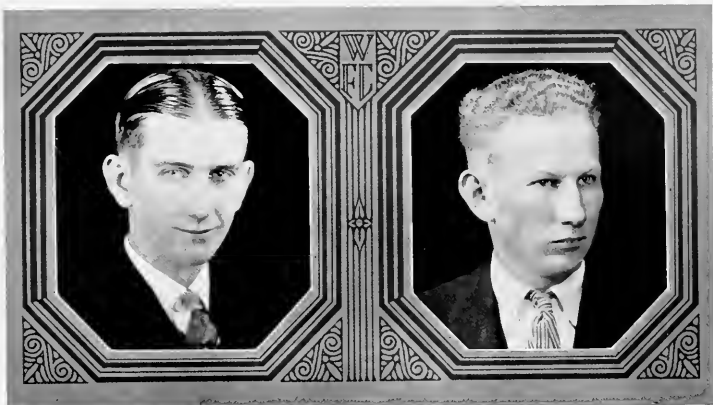

Θ Κ Χ
Applicant for E. A. Dearee
 SHARVARD, NORTH CAROLINA
 "PRY"

Age 21, Weight 140, Height 5 ft 9 ins.

"C. G.," a boy worth knowing and a friend worth having, is one of the brightest students in our class. His sterling qualities have won for him many friends who have great confidence in his ability and wish for him a most successful career.

ACTIVITIES: Member College Band (1); Society Day Marshal (2); Class Historian (2); Sub-Assistant Baseball Manager (2); Assistant Track Manager (3); Student Council (3); Junior Editor Howler (3); Education Club (4); Vice-President Student Body (4); Society Day Marshal, Ed. Chief (4).

JIMMIE BRAY SAWYER, Phi.

Applicant for B. A. Degree

SHILOH, NORTH CAROLINA

"BYE" "PREACHER"

Age 22, Weight 153, Height 6 ft.

If there is one distinctive feature about "Preacher," it is his desire to play tennis all the time. His most interesting incident happened at Chapel Hill when he drew a bye at the State Meet and worried all day because he couldn't find his partner, "Mr. Bye." SAWYER is a likeable fellow and a good student. We all wish him the very best of success in his life's work.

ACTIVITIES: Secretary "D" Union B. Y. P. U. (1); President (2); Secretary Boreau S. S. Class (2); Vice-President (3); Varsity Tennis (3, 4).

IVEY W. SINGLETARY, Phi.

Applicant for B. A. Degree

BLADENBORO, NORTH CAROLINA

"SING" "CURLEY"

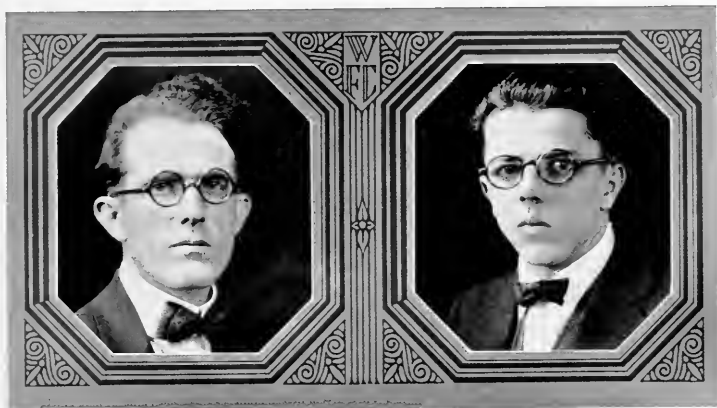

Age 21, Weight 158, Height 5 ft. 10 ins.

"Sing" is a genial old fellow and a true friend. His favorite pastime is playing hearts—not the parlor type. That explains why he wanted a nice soft haly pillow and a large razor strap.

"Sing" is very studious—or was when he was having a picture taken in his room to send home. He was a great admirer of his Spanish professor, J. W. Crowley, and it is certain that they will take a trip together to South America in the near future.

ACTIVITIES: Class Football (1, 2); Class Baseball (2, 3); Vice-President of B. Y. P. U. Union (3); El Circulo Espanol (3).

EVERETT H. CANNADY
Applicant for B. A. Degree
 INGOLD, NORTH CAROLINA
 "DOC"

Age 34, Weight 135, Height 5 ft. 8 ins.

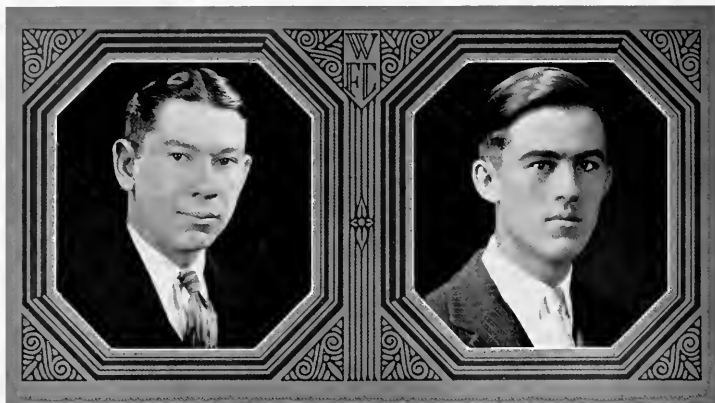

"Doc's" presence at Wake Forest College has been intermittent, but nevertheless a genuine pleasure to those who have been intimately acquainted with him. After his first entrance as an applicant for the bar, he loyally answered his country's call for military service in 1917. When he next made Wake Forest his instructive environment, it was for ministerial training. Sampson County claims no worthier son of a noble cause in the religious and educational world.

FRED Y. KETNER, Phi.
 X Z X
Applicant for B. S. Med. Degree
 WASHINGTON, D. C.

Age 23, Weight 132, Height 5 ft. 8 ins.

In FRED we have one of the most consistent and hard-working students in the Medical Class. Besides being a good student, FRED is also the class orator. Often he has held his classmates, in moments of relaxation, spell-bound by the Demosthenian eloquence of his oratory and the Websterian grandeur and sweep of his gestures. Earnest, genial, big-hearted, he gives every promise of a brilliant career. Though he has a heavy schedule of class work, "Doc" has found time to take an active part in B. Y. P. U. and other religious work.

BAHNSON NEIL BARNES, Phi.

Δ Π Δ, Κ Φ Κ

Applicant for B. A. Degree

LUMBERTON, NORTH CAROLINA

"B. N."

Age 22, Weight 150, Height 5 ft. 9 ins.

"B. N." hies from the sandy soil of Robeson County. He is naturally a good fellow and a student of no mean ability. His persistent efforts in the classroom have won for him a place in the hearts of many of the faculty also of two or more at Meredith.

ACTIVITIES: Track Squad (3); President Robeson County Club (3); Secretary Junior Class (3); Commencement Marshal (3); Student Legislature (4); Treasurer Phi. Society (4); Vice-President Phi. Society (4); Education Club (4); Senior Class Poet (4).

JULIAN THADDEUS GASKILL, Phi.

Κ Φ Κ

Applicant for B. S. Degree

SFA LEVEL, NORTH CAROLINA

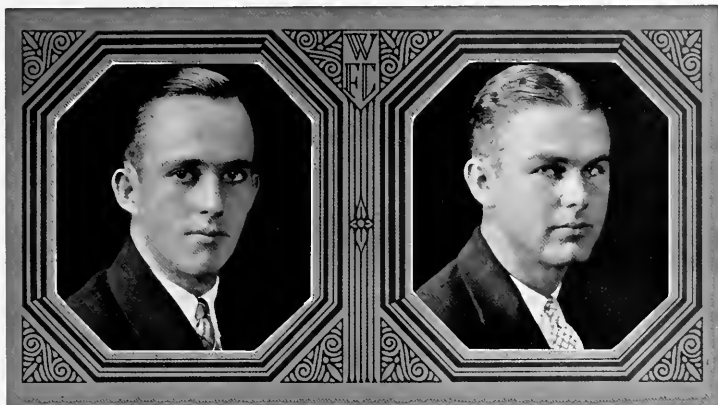

"JULIE" "J. T."

Age 22, Weight 145, Height 5 ft. 11 ins.

As a leader in college activities, especially in society work, this young "Sea Leveler" stands four-square in the rank of the elite. His attitude upon the seriousness of life is to be commended. A better example of genuine thinking and indefatigable cheerfulness cannot be found on the campus.

ACTIVITIES: Education Club (3, 4); President El Circulo Español (3); Vice-President Education Club (4); Vice-President Phi. Society (4); Anniversary Marshal, Phi. Chief (4); Intercollegiate Debater (4).

JOHN THOMAS DAVIS

Ø K Ψ

Applicant for B. S. Med. Degree

KERSHAW, SOUTH CAROLINA

"FRESHMAN"

Age 20, Weight 140, Height 5 ft. 10 ins.

This South Carolina lad has only one stumbling block in his road to success—the habit of always being "behind" on class, but if he is as successful in after-life at getting away with it as he has been at Wake Forest, it will not handicap him much. We all like Jinks and feel that he is quite an addition to our class. He is a worthy representative of his native state.

ACTIVITIES: Wm. Edgar Marshall Medical Society (3, 4); South Carolina Club (1, 2, 3).

CHARLES BRYANT WINBERRY, Phi.

Ψ Β Ν

Applicant for LL. B. Degree

WELLS, NORTH CAROLINA

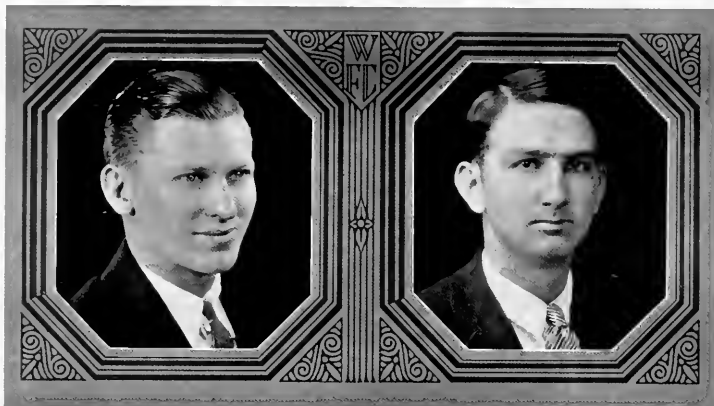

"CHARLIE"

Age 22, Weight 140, Height 5 ft. 5 ins.

"CHARLIE" is one who does not believe in illness. In fact, he spends the greater part of his time in the law library. This is the way a number of our greatest men laid the foundation for their successes. "CHARLIE" now has his foundation, and we are expecting to see his success become apparent in the near future. On this foundation we predict that a superstructure will be erected for two or more.

ACTIVITIES: Licensed Attorney (3); Student Legislature (4).

RICHARD ENNIS SENTELLE, JR.

Α Φ Ψ

Applicant for B. S. Degree
TAYLOR, NORTH CAROLINA

"ONION"

Age 21, Weight 153, Height 5 ft. 11 ins.

ENNIS must get his title from the fact that he and onions both enjoy unexcelled popularity among the ladies. SENTELLE has a very pleasant disposition and is always welcomed in any gathering of students. It would be hard to find a man whose ability to be a genuine friend can equal his. Our association here with him will be a fond recollection in years to come. Luck to you, ENNIS!

ACTIVITIES: Class Football (2, 3); Class Baseball (2, 3, 4); Class Basketball (3, 4); Varsity Track (2, 3, 4); El Circulo Espanol (4); President Pan-Hellenic Council (4).

ROBERT GLENN TYNDEL

Θ Κ Ψ

Applicant for B. S. Med. Degree
KINSTON, NORTH CAROLINA

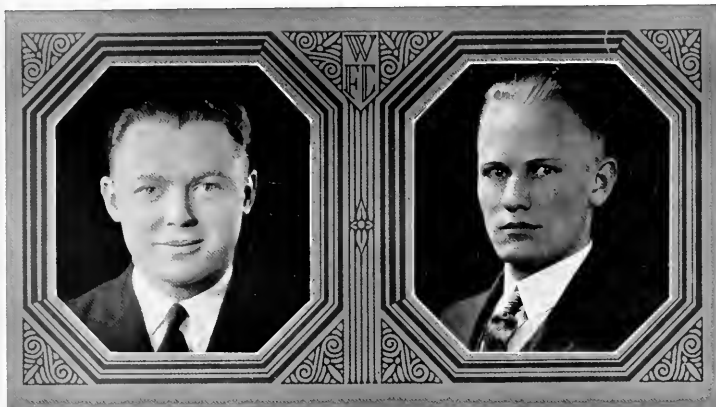

"BOB"

Age 21, Weight 157, Height 5 ft. 10 ins.

"Bob" is at home in at least three fields: Thinking of the opposites, curing smoke, and in the classroom. He considers himself on a level with the rest of humanity and believes in the practical application of the theory that a man is estimated by the work he does.

ACTIVITIES: Lavoisier Chemical Society (3, 4, 5, 6); Philosophy Club (3, 4, 5, 6); Student Council (4); B. A., Wake Forest College (4); Pan-Hellenic Council (5); Wm. Edgar Marshall Medical Society (5, 6); Assistant in Pathology (6).

LILLBURN BURKE MOSELEY, Eu.

Applicant for B. A. Degree

SELMA, ALABAMA

"BUSTER"

Age 21, Weight 155, Height 5 ft. 9 ins.

When a leader was sought for the Golden Bough, 'twas he. Scholarly, lovable and a Christian gentleman, "Ay, every inch a man," "L. B." has won the highest esteem of his fellow students and is worthy of every confidence they have placed in him.

ACTIVITIES: Commencement Marshal (1); Freshman Debater's Medal, Eu. (1); General President B. Y. P. U. (3); Intercollegiate Debater (3, 4); Ammuniary Debater (3); Philosophy Club (3, 4); President (4); English Club (3, 4); Junior Editor HOWLER (3); Senior Editor HOWLER (4); Assistant in English and Bible (3); Secretary of Student Body (4); President Eu. Society (4); Chairman Debate Council (3); Assistant in Philosophy (3); Golden Bough (3, 4); Hierophant of Golden Bough (4).

CLIVE VERGIL HARRILL, Eu.

Applicant for B. A. Degree

SHELBY, NORTH CAROLINA

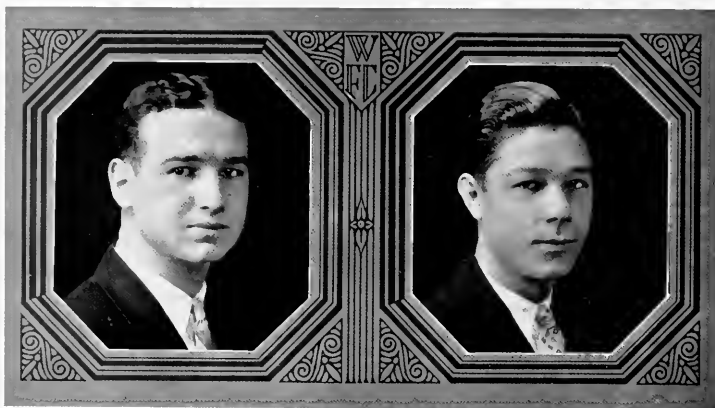

"CLIVITY"

Age 23, Weight 158, Height 5 ft. 11 ins.

"CLIVITY" hails from the hills of western North Carolina. During his stay here he has shown to all his associates that embodied in him are ideals as high as the hills from whence he comes.

ACTIVITIES: Assistant Librarian (3, 4); Secretary Lavoisier Chemical Society (3); President Chemical Society (4); Student Legislature (4); Vice-President Eu. Society (4); Education Club (4); Secretary Anniversary Day (4); Vice-President Cleveland County Club (4); Senior Editor HOWLER (4); President Debating Section Eu. Society (4); Interscholastic Tournament Committee (4).

Applicant for B. A. Med. Degree
MORRIS, NORTH CAROLINA

"J. B."

Age 22, Weight 165, Height 5 ft. 11 ins.

Truly a man among men! No more promising student has started along the rough, rocky road of the medical course in recent years. As a classmate and friend BIVENS is unique. He has a disposition that will make friends wherever he should decide to settle down. BIVENS is an all-round man, and his classmates are expecting great things of him.

ACTIVITIES: B. A. Degree, Wake Forest College (4); Golden Bough (5, 6); Wm. Edgar Marshall Medical Society (5, 6).

WILLIAM CODA MARTIN

Applicant for B. A. Med. Degree
LIBERTY, NORTH CAROLINA

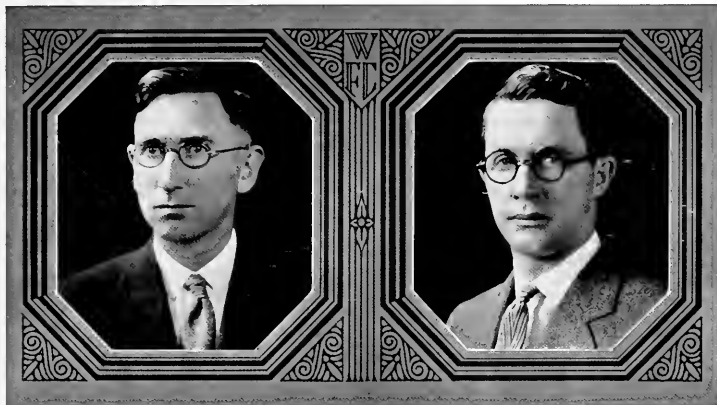

"W. C."

Age 21, Weight 151, Height 5 ft. 11 ins.

Truly it can be said that here is a man whose personal character cannot be assailed, whose purpose in life is high, and whose record in medicine is one that anyone should be proud of. Standing among the leaders of his class, CODA, as he is popularly called, has exemplified the Jeffersonian virtues of honesty, capacity, and fitness. We predict for this boy a bright future.

ACTIVITIES: Lavoisier Chemical Society (2, 3, 4); Edgar Marshall Medical Society (3, 4); Vice-President Junior Class (3); Student Council (4); Historian Medical Class (4).

RAY ARTHUR SMITH, Ed.
Applicant for B. A. Degree
 ALBEMARLE, NORTH CAROLINA

"JOB"

Age 32, Weight 160, Height 5 ft. 10 ins.

"JOB," as he is known to us, is the personification of patience. His honesty and great zeal mark him as one who is bound to meet success—he will find a way or he will make one. He is a true friend, a student, and a real gentleman. He faces the world with many valuable assets, and we believe the characteristics that have won for him a large number of friends among the students will win for him a place in the world.

ACTIVITIES: Christier Berean S. S. Class (2); Chaplain Eu. Society (3).

HURLEY C. LOWDER, Ed.
Applicant for B. A. Degree
 ALBEMARLE, NORTH CAROLINA

"JACK"

Age 26, Weight 148, Height 5 ft. 10 ins.

"JACK," as he is known among his fellow students, has the qualities which augur success. Honesty, frankness, courtesy, and persistence are his distinguishing characteristics. He has been successful in all his studies. He is a man of deep convictions and high ideals. We hope that his success will follow him and make him an honor to his Alma Mater, his country, and his chosen profession, the ministry.

ACTIVITIES: Class Baseball (1); Vice-President Berean S. S. Class (2); Commencement Marshal (3).

CHARLES B. TRAMMEL

Applicant for B. A. Degree
RUTHERFORD, NORTH CAROLINA

"C. B." "SKY"

Age 26, Weight 160, Height 6 ft.

CHARLES has a big loving heart so they say and a joke for each occasion. Though he always moves among his fellow students in an unassuming way, he has become recognized as a hearty participant in all worthy activities. We love him because we find in him a deep spiritual nature, a faithful student, and a dear, dear friend. TRAMMEL, we are sure, will make a mark for himself as a preacher.

ACTIVITIES: Vice-President Ministerial Class (4); Assistant in Bible (4).

ROY A. MORRIS

Applicant for B. A. Degree
BYNUM, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 30, Weight 148, Height 5 ft. 10 ins.

ROY is an earnest, sincere student who has won the admiration and esteem of the faculty and his fellow students. A truer friend could not be found; a man with more friends would be hard to find. Faced as he appears on the outside, Roy is a man capable of profound emotions, but he puts a stress, both in theory and in practice, on the duty of self-control, believing that—

" . . . God approves

The depth and not the tumult of the soul."

ACTIVITIES: Ministerial Class (1, 2, 3, 4); B. S. U. Council (4); Assistant in Bible (4).

Applicant for B. A. Degree
 HENDERSONVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA
 "SENATOR"

Age 24, Weight 145, Height 5 ft. 9 ins.

Thorough in work; Christian in character! The first of these qualities he gained through his experience as a book agent—not that he wanted to, but it was thoroughness or starvation. The second he acquired as a part of his education at Wake Forest College. These qualities have demanded the admiration of his fellow students and we are sure will demand the respect and good will of his future associates. W. O., we predict a great future for you and your partner MAXWELL as book agents.

ACTIVITIES: Education Club (3, 4).

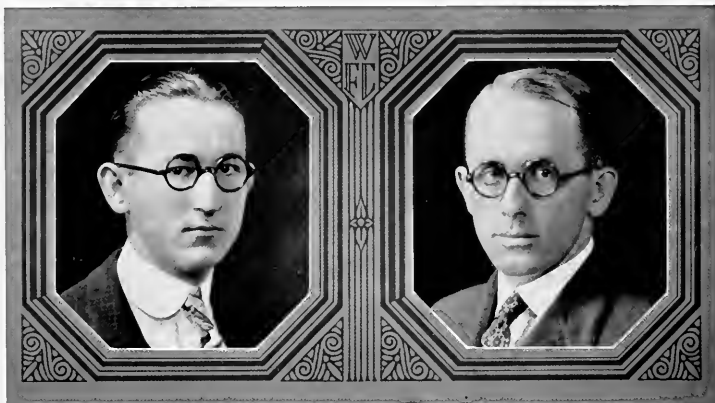

FOREST C. MAXWELL, Ed.
Applicant for B. A. Degree
 HENDERSONVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA
 "MAX"

Age 26, Weight 150, Height 5 ft. 8 ins.

If MAXWELL had his way about it, he would sell Bibles in Arkansas the rest of his days. He believes that he might in time civilize a few of the people in that desolate country. However, MAXWELL some time ago contracted a lingering malady caused by a dart from Cupid, and of course his future "half" will not allow him to take such a drastic step.

MARION DAVID BLANTON, Ph.D.

Applicant for B. A. Degree
CLIFFSIDE, NORTH CAROLINA

"SHINE" "M. D."

Age 25, Weight 143, Height 5 ft. 7 ins.

"SHINE" is the name! We can see very clearly how he got this title when we get him around the ladies. Here he outshines all others.

BLANTON has a winning personality. He is a true Christian, a loyal friend, and an earnest worker in all worthy fields. He has convictions and stands by them no matter what the opposition. We are sure that he will make a mark for himself and do a worth-while work as a preacher. We commend him for his pluck and his ability to stick to any task he undertakes.

"LONGUS" "JABEZ"

Age 26, Weight 163, Height 5 ft. 9 ins.

"LONGUS" is a Westerner who possesses all the virtues of a Christian gentleman. He is full of life yet unassuming. He is never idle, yet never too busy to "crack a joke" with a friend. He has a large vocabulary, but has never learned the meaning of "failure." A real student with a purpose from within, he will grow as long as he breathes, for he seeks, lives, and loves the truth.

"CAKE" "SHEIK"

Age 22, Weight 150, Height 5 ft. 11 ins.

Of all the students in college there is none who exceeds "Cake" as a ladies' man. Besides this characteristic he is a good student, and one who can pass his work and have time left for fun. His comical nature makes him a jolly sort of a fellow who is loved by all with whom he associates. As he goes out into life we believe that his sunny disposition will serve him well in solving the problems of his life's work. His many friends will watch with interest as he takes a step in making the world better and happier. Surely we can wish him success in whatever profession he may choose.

 "JACK" "M. B."

Age 24, Weight 156, Height 5 ft. 10 ins.

Within three years "M. B." has completed his B. A. course at Wake Forest. He is an appreciative student of all good literature. Liberal in views, broad-minded in his thinking, but why not let the poet describe him in saying:

*"One who never turned his back but marched breast forward,
 Never doubted clouds would break,
 Never dreamed, the right were worsted, wrong
 would triumph,
 Held his fall to rise, or baffled to fight better,
 Sleep to wake."*

ACTIVITIES: Censor Debating Section Eu. Society (2); Secretary (3); Senior Critic (4); Vice-President (4).

ROBERT CLETT'S FOSTER, Ed.

Applicant for B. A. Degree
 MORRISVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 23, Weight 155, Height 5 ft. 10 ins.

One could not wish for a truer friend than FOSTER. His high moral standard, lofty ideals, and sincerity of heart have won the admiration of all who know him. His ability as a student distinguishes him as a prominent member of the Senior Class. We can but predict for him, in the high calling which he has chosen, a place of leadership among men.

ACTIVITIES: Vice-President Union "G." B. Y. P. U. (2); Secretary Union "G." (2); President Debating Section Ed. Society (4); Junior Critic Debating Section (4); Censor Ed. Society (4); Vice-President Ed. Society (4); Secretary Ministerial Class (4).

"TOM"

Age 19, Weight 155, Height 5 ft. 10 ins.

We have a very pessimistic prediction for "Tom." We are afraid he will never get very far. During his college days "Tom" studied so hard and took his work so seriously that he nearly ruined his health. If he continues to take life so seriously he will soon be a complete wreck. We advise more recreation and amusement for "Tom." Carlton leaves Wake Forest with a host of friends, and these are by no means confined to his fellow students of the male institutions.

ACTIVITIES: Class Baseball (2, 3, 4); Treasurer Freshman Class (1); Class Football (3, 4); Prep Basketball Team, Golf Club; Senior Class Textor (4).

"FLASH"

Age 21, Weight 140, Height 5 ft. 8 ins.

If "FLASH" describes him on the basketball floor, Noah Webster himself will have to be called upon to furnish a word appropriate to describe his habits of class attendance. Although he was a varsity man in two sports for three years, Joe's classmates will remember him for his extreme punctuality with respect to class attendance—ask Dr. Gorrell.

ACTIVITIES: "W" Club (2, 3, 4); Captain Class Football Team (1); Captain Class Baseball (1); Class Basketball (1); Varsity Football (2, 3, 4); Varsity Basketball (2, 3, 4).

CLASS HISTORY

A GREAT epoch in our lives is fast drawing to a close. College life with its tears and its smiles, its work and its play, its sorrows and its joys is now a matter of history. And as our thoughts turn back to the beginning of this history—that is, in the early fall of 1922, when one hundred sixty-nine freshmen from mountain and from seashore, from the city's crowded thoroughfare and the country's sunny field, and from hill and valley migrated to the magnolia-covered campus of Wake Forest College—we recall that a great and noble history was even then in the embryonic stage. A group characterized by a rich variety of desirable qualities were these, and as the golden thread of college life slowly but steadily spins towards its end it would not be at all unfitting to invoke the assistance of the nine Muses in chronologizing the history of this—we trust—famous class.

As we attempt to write the history of the Class of '26, we do not wish to boast either of what the class has done or to predict what it will do. We merely wish to state the facts and let the observers of time give the class credit for what it has done here and what it may do in the future. When we get out into the world, we will not be asked, "what do you know?" but, "what can you do?" Whether the Class of '26 will receive encores, will not be decided by the grades on the examination papers already laid on the dusty shelves of time, but by the practical, serviceable, and honorable use which we make of the knowledge acquired during our sojourn here.

Our arrival at Wake Forest was coincident with the advent of a new order of things. Student government, freshman rules, and freshman caps were tried out on our class for the first time. We are proud of the distinction of being the first to wear the freshman caps. As a result of the splendid spirit and coöperation that existed between the members of the Student Council, the Sophomore Class, and our class, this year saw hazing practically abolished, only two freshmen being shorn of their crowning glory. During these long, tedious months of adjustment to our new life, Joe Piner was our popular and efficient leader.

Because the days of our probation were over, the next year was not such an eventful one; and as a result of the efficient discipline received during our freshman year, such habits were instilled into the daily routine of our lives, that we seldom departed from the custom of nightly study. So under the leadership of Lamar Candle, we lived the ordinary lives of sophomores—perhaps better than some classes and not so well as others.

During our Junior year we were under the leadership of Henry Snuggs. Some college authorities say that the junior year is the one in which college students really take life seriously, the one in which they do the hardest work of their whole college careers. If this be true, we could not have had a more fitting leader than our president, who with his executive ability, combined a high type of scholarship.

Our last year has been one of hard work and eager anticipation—work to remove every obstacle in the way of attaining the final goal, anticipation of the day when we should reach that goal. Throughout the three previous years, we looked forward to the time when we should be Seniors, and so we are not unmindful of the dignity and distinction which is ours—a dignity and distinction worthily typified by our president, Marvin Slate.

No history of our class would be complete without a brief résumé of the various college activities in which our members have taken part. A well-rounded college man must take part in various student activities, and a well-rounded class must necessarily be represented in various student activities.

When the Demon Deacons swept through the state last year to win the football championship, eight players were members of our class. These same eight men this year were on the team which defeated the University of North Carolina by a score of six to nothing at Chapel Hill on September the twenty-sixth. Three of the members of last year's championship baseball team were also in our class. We were also represented by three men on the basketball team and by four on the tennis team.

Five members of last year's debating team, which made the splendid record of winning four out of five debates, came from the Class of '26. The fact that our class has contributed a large number of writers for literary staffs of both the Old Gold and Black and THE HOWLER proves conclusively that we have splendid material with which to add to the literary treasures of the ages.

That we are not lacking in musical talent is well shown by the fact that five members of the Glee Club and Orchestra, which last year won state honors at the contest in Durham, were our classmates. This year's club bids fair to repeat last year's performance.

To those who for four years have patiently guided our footsteps along the pathway of knowledge, who have borne with us in our mistakes, and rejoiced with us in our successes, we would pay a farewell tribute. How successfully they have labored in our behalf, the present faintly shows. Future years alone will reveal how many lives were inspired by them to nobler heights of service, were directed by them along the road of truest success.

'Tis with a feeling of sadness that we come to the parting of the ways. However, as we realize that we must separate ourselves from so many dear friends, and that the world is calling us to a nobler and greater service, we go feeling with Longfellow that:

*"Lives of great men remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time."*

—HISTORIAN.

"PATIENCE and perseverance overcome the greatest difficulties." I had carefully read HOWLER after HOWLER and consulted every other available source for two long months, endeavoring to reveal or have revealed to me a true prophecy of the Class of '26. But I had no dreams; no visions; conjuring seemed a lost art—even the spirits of the "harricane" failed to give me the proper inspiration. Notwithstanding all these fruitless attempts, I was signally rewarded on the night of January 11 after returning to my room from the Great Senior Smoker.

It was on this eventful night that I was destined to write the prophecy of the Class of '26. For two hours I had been lying in my bed trying my utmost to get in communication with the great god Morpheus. It was not three o'clock, and not a sound to be heard, except the loud, lonesome snoring of my beloved roommate. As I lay there listening to the stertorous music so artfully delivered by my roommate, the snoring gradually blended into a multitude of indistinguishable sounds, while a vision arose of an ancient patriarch, gowned, in all the splendor of the colorful Orient, marshaling before my awe-stricken eyes a band of forms at first indistinguishable. I was struck with horror as I saw the first form take the appearance of a mammoth mausoleum. At least I could detect at first sight that this occupant must have been a great man to lie at his death amidst such splendor. Then I saw this simple but impressive epitaph: "E. K. Creech, died June 6, 1950, a lawyer, yet an honest man."

Then the next form, as from airy nothing, took a shape and rose, I realized here before my eyes was what I wanted most to see. Here was passing the Class of '26, twenty-five years hence, in 1951. In visions of splendor, wealth and poverty, happiness and sorrow beyond the power of words to describe, I saw what the hand of fate decreed for our classmates, and I here record in an humble and inefficient way some of the things that I saw that night.

In the election of 1951, R. N. Summer-ill was chosen for the gubernatorial chair of North Carolina by an overwhelming majority, and his administration soon became noted for its progressive ideals, particularly in the elimination of moonshining, poker playing and watermelon thievery.

The state supreme court had on its benches Chief Justice C. B. Winberry, and Associate Chief Justice L. E. Skinner, while J. W. Sledge, J. W. Piner and B. E. Hood elevated the superior court circuit to a position of respect and influence never known before in the annals of North Carolina law.

G. B. Godfrey was the successful candidate for President of the United States in 1948. Mr. E. L. Hinton was one of the members of the very successful law firm of Gresham, Horton, Phillips and Hinton, whose main office was in New York City, with branch offices in Philadelphia, Chicago, and Los Angeles.

Drs. J. B. Helms and W. C. Martin, after many years of hard and persistent work in their private laboratory in Raleigh, N. C., discovered a sure cure for the tobacco habit and a lotion guaranteed to grow hair on bald heads. Drs. R. E. Earp, C. V. Hollowell, W. P. Richardson, and D. F. Alcock were doing a great work in Africa. Drs. K. H. Reitzel, Steve McIntyre, and G. C. Mackie were three of the most noted eye, ear, nose and throat specialists of their day, having restored the hearing of one man who had been deaf for twenty years, and also the sight of a man who was born blind. Drs. J. T. Davis, R. G. Tyndal, and M. W. DeLoatch were the first men ever to discover a drug that would start a man's heart back to beating after it had been stopped for as long as twelve hours.

A. L. Aycock was head of the English department in Wake Forest College. B. N. Barnes married soon after finishing college, and began his work as principal of Lumberton High School. At the last census taken, he had five daughters and six sons. In his school were E. O. Burroughs, teaching Bible; J. C. Eakes, teaching science, and C. B. Earp, teaching Latin. C. V. Harrill, E. R. Griffin and R. E. Plemmons were guiding the destiny of the school system of the Philippine Islands.

O. L. Norment, H. L. Stiggs, and J. B. Sawyer were heads of the philosophy, English, and theology departments respectively of Holmes University, the greatest educational institution of its kind in the world, recently founded through the generosity of Mr. C. R. Holmes, the South's premier business man.

J. P. Davis preached two years after finishing college, but turned from this field to teaching. E. H. Cannady was teaching Bible in the Seminary at Louisville, Ky. L. B. Mosely was pastor of the Baptist Church at Wake Forest and also chaplain of the college. R. C. Foster, J. S. Hopkins and H. C. Lowder met an untimely death in Africa during a war among the natives.

George Bauerlein, J. Y. Ellington, and I. P. Hedgepeth were making a howling success in the feed business at Greensboro. They had for their salesmen J. T. Gaskill, W. E. Timberlake, and N. S. Upchurch.

J. B. Joyner, M. B. Holoman, and J. R. Parrish, after receiving their B.S. Degrees, decided to take medicine, and to these men goes the honor of discovering the cure for corns and in-growing toe nails.

R. C. Day, as was predicted while in college, married a rich widow, and settled down in New York to play the rôle of a hen-pecked husband, with A. U. Stroupe as his secretary.

C. B. Trammel became one of the greatest evangelists of his day, but much of his glory was due to the work of his distinguished singer, J. F. Woodward.

I. W. Singletary was acknowledged as one of the most successful farmers of his county, having as his tenants A. D. Hurst, W. G. Harris, F. C. Maxwell, and C. G. Maddrey.

J. C. Masten became one of the "high-uppity-ups" in the Reynolds Tobacco Company, but he was never the success I feel he would have been if he had only taken my advice and gone back to the farm, whence he came.

J. L. Tolar was never seen after he sailed in 1934 for the North Pole on an expedition fostered by M. L. Slate and B. L. West.

F. H. Malone, in 1934, was called to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of Greensboro, where he carried on his good work for the rest of his long and useful life.

W. C. Morse, B. F. Slate and T. L. Tolar, after making their fortunes in the moving picture business, gave to Wake Forest College one-half of the interest on their money for one year, which was $500,000.

J. O. Powers was elected State Superintendent of Public Instruction in 1948.

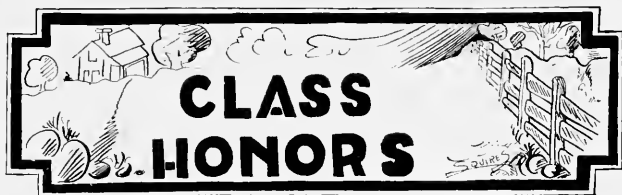

In the parlor of a country home in Texas sat W. O. Reed with his face buried in his hands as in great trouble while the little Reeds stood around him. A knock at the door. R. A. Smith entered, and after warm greetings, Reed unburdened his heart to Smith. The community preacher had resigned a few weeks before, and Reed being the elder deacon, the job fell to his lot to get a preacher.

The scene then changed back to the old home state and I saw the little metropolis of Wadesboro. Within the magistrate's court T. L. Caudle was earnestly pleading the case of State vs. T. K. Carlton on a charge of driving too slowly on main street, thereby congesting the city traffic.

As this scene terminated the old patriarch smiled, bowed, and receded. I was nervous and in a cold sweat now, but I called for him to stay a bit longer. I asked feebly, "And I, what shall be my fate?" But he only replied, "Sleep, thou wretched mortal, already thou hast seen more than is good for thee."

With these words my vision began to become hazy and dim, and the whole blended again into the sonorous snore of my roommate from whence it had risen.

—PROPHET.

CLASS HONORS

IS an honor an honor if it ain't an honor, an' if it ain't an honor then what is it?" It was to answer this perplexing and philosophical question that the all-wise (?) gentlemen of the Senior class assembled in the Williams Dining Hall for their annual smoker on Monday night, January 11. The class showed its appreciation of the sumptuous banquet which had been prepared by election of our hostess, "Miss Jo," to honorary membership in the class. Then the fellows began to grow restless; they were anxious to see how their well-planned campaigns were going to pan out. With Mr. M. L. Slate presiding, the election began in earnest.

Nominations for the best-looking man in the class were in order. I. W. Singletary was elected, while C. G. Maddrey piled up a majority and was elected as the ugliest.

"Class Sheik," announced the president; over a dozen lays leaped up. Evidently a political ring had been organized, for they all yelled, "Give us Creech." After the tumult had died away, Creech was declared duly elected.

The "ring" functioned so perfectly that W. O. (Senator) Reed was "railroaded" through as best "Ball-shooter," "Spike" Henderson as "Most Dignified," and T. L. Tolar as the "Class Tight-wad."

Here the smoke grew denser, and the voting became furious. In a whirl C. R. Holmes, better known as "Sherlock," was nominated as "Best Athlete." Despite the opposition given by A. S. Gillespie he was elected, and Gillespie was immediately elected "Biggest Liar." Zeno Martin was elected "Most Truthful."

Every class has a musician. On account of his marked ability as a singer and deep appreciation for the high type of music given in the lycium attractions, O. L. Norment was elected "Class Musician" without a dissenting vote.

H. L. Smuggs, in a toast, had spoken about the Volstead Act "As one having authority." He was immediately dubbed "Bootallegger," while his opponent, L. B. Moseley, unanimously won the honor of being the "Best Poker Player" in the class.

According to Parson Bagby's questionnaire, our class is a very religious and church-going one. When nominations for the "Most Religious" were in order our election took on the aspect of a Democratic convention. After a hard-fought battle, George "Canine" Mackie emerged victorious on the fifty-ninth ballot. Aycock was immediately elected "Dumbest" because he couldn't get the ballots out fast enough.

A. D. Hurst is the "Biggest Vamp" in our class. He won the place without opposition. L. B. Martin justly deserves the place he won—"Woman Hater."

In any large group there are crooks as well as others. T. L. Caudle was elected "Biggest Crook." E. O. "Runt" Burroughs won out as "Biggest Bum." Our "Hobo" is none other than M. L. Slate, our president.

De we love the ladies? Evidently. At least Griffin does. He's the "Ladies' Man" of the class. Frank Slate is "Best Dresser," B. L. West is "Biggest Sport," and Gaskill is our "Cake Eater."

When we began looking for the "Most Feminine," all eyes turned to Morse. He was declared "It." He placed "Shorty" Joyner on ticket as "Best Politician." He won from Masten by a small majority and Masten's popularity was given recognition when he was declared the "Most Popular" man in the class.

No one denies Godfrey his merited place among the honored of the class. With due solemnity he was unanimously declared to be the "Most Studious" man on the class roll.

We hate to tell it on him, but P. W. Johnson is the "Biggest Tobacco Chewer" in the class.

Every class has its Cicero or Demosthenes. Experience on the Glee Club and elsewhere has peculiarly fitted Eakes for this rôle. He was elected "Class Orator" without opposition.

This class has intelligence galore: "Bill" McIver is outstanding and easily the "Most Intellectual." "Cake" Day thought that he should have had this office; he was at once dubbed "Most Conceited."

Meet the "Most Optimistic" man in the class; he is C. R. Long. T. K. Carlton is the "Most Pessimistic."

His vast experience on the summer school campus has made him well fitted for his office; R. E. Earp was elected "Biggest Necker." Malone was candidate for the place, but he was reserved for a place that fits him better; he is undoubtedly the "Best Faculty Legger."

Not satisfied with taking honors unto themselves alone, the class, satisfied that they had enough, began to consider the outstanding men on the faculty. The vote follows:

"Biggest Crank," Dr. A. C. Reid; "Most Popular," Dr. H. M. Vann; "Most Useless Fixture," Dr. H. M. Poteat; "Most Masculine," Dr. H. B. Jones; "Crummiest," Prof. Clonts; "Spendthrift," Dr. Gorrell; "Most Literary," "Dr." Thos. Jeirries; "Most Deceitful," Dr. A. Paul Bagby; "Most Countrified," Prof. Speas; "Most Ignorant," Dr. W. L. Poteat; "Most Ungrammatical," Dr. Sledd; "Most Profane," Dr. Lynch; "Most Serious," Prof. Sherrill; "Most Athletic," Dr. Cullom; "Biggest Tobacco Hater," Prof. Lake.

LAST WILL and TESTAMENT

WAKE COUNTY,
STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,

JUNE 3, 1926.

WE, the Class of 1926, Wake Forest College, County of Wake, State of North Carolina, being in good bodily health—according to the standard prescribed by "Phil"—and of sound and disposing mind and memory—according to the local phrenologists and alienists; realizing now that our sojourn here in this memorable College must soon come to an end; that relief from the strain of quizzes will greatly undermine our health; and that the absence of the fellowship and inspiration heretofore received from the great social brotherhood; i. e., "The Amalgamated Sons of Rest," will eventually mean our utter downfall and ruin, do make and declare this our Last Will and Testament.

We desire that our executors, hereinafter named, shall see that our funeral services are directed in accordance with the wishes of our friends and relatives, and pay all expenses incurred thereby, together with our just debts, not including society dues, library fines, hospital bills, and "boomerang" checks.

To our dear parents we give cause for great rejoicing by relieving them of the burden of paying our padded accounts which have always appeared before the end of each collegiate month, and we assure them that we hope to make restitution for their great love and their constancy in bearing our numerous bills without complaint by making of ourselves men such that we may bring joy and gladness to their hearts in old age.

As a token of our gratitude and loyalty we give and bequeath to our Alma Mater the continuation of our good will and unmying love, and pledge to her our unwavering support in her efforts to enlighten and uplift those who may follow in our footsteps.

We bequeath to Doctor Tom's "Woodology Laboratory" the Gem Theater, Service Pressing Club, and the Wake Forest Hotel to be used in the furtherance of his task of keeping the college as warm in winter as in summer.

To the "Sky Class" we give: (1) The exclusive right to marry, own Fords, and acquire wealth while attending college; (2) The privilege of handling all intoxicating beverages such as "Bevo," "Bitters," "Nuxated Iron," and light beers.

To the Freshman Class we give the right and privilege to escort in whatever style they like and at any time suitable to them the incoming students next year to the Gem Theater, the golf links, Holding's Pond, and the renown monument nearby. We also bequeath to this august body Ed Creech's ability to worry Freshmen, and we endorse their plan to allow a Freshman "Smoker" next year, provided they get as much pleasure from it as we did from theirs.

To the all-wise host of Sophomore-ism: We forgive them for making the life of the "Newish" miserable, and now we expect them to conduct themselves so as to make for a more brotherly love on the campus.

We give and bequeath the Junior class the following estate:

(1) Senior privileges—including the right to sleep through all first period classes.

(2) Senior honors.

(3) The proverbial Senior dignity which we hope they will accept with an humble spirit.

To the members of the Faculty who have been our friends through these years and have always aided us in our search for knowledge, we give our deepest respect, appreciation, and esteem.

The remainder of our property, of whatever value, character, and quality it may be, we bestow upon our Dean for his sole use and benefit under this one proviso: That he keep on hand at all times an ample supply of stationery to keep delinquents informed of their chapel and gymnasium irregularities, and that he always give an excuse to anyone who has missed a class due to the irregularity of the freight schedule.

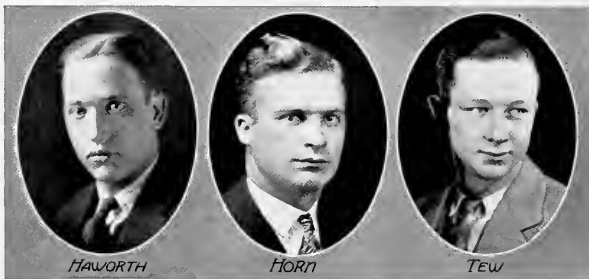

We do hereby appoint and constitute Dr. Thomas Jeffries, Professor Bose, and "Chick" to be the executors of this our Last Will and Testament.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, we, the Class of '26, have to this our Last Will and Testament, printed on two sheets of parchment, subscribed our names and affixed our seal this 3rd day of June, Anno Domini One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-Six, hereby revoking and making null and void any and all other wills by us heretofore made.

JUNIOR CLASS POEM

We change with time as doth the seed
 That falls in loamy soil.
 Our entrance first knew not the need
 Of life's eternal toil,
 Nor yet the age-old living creed
 That progress means turmoil.

Soon sophomore age arrives
 When we must seek to know.
 The seedling sprouts, develops, thrives
 In fountains' onward flow;
 A ceaseless flux has been our lives,
 The change but makes us grow.

Thus time and change forever bind
 The seed, the plant, the tree;
 Three season's growth are now behind,
 Another one will see
 Some golden fruit—a ripening mind—
 Foretelling destiny.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

IN the minds of every class taken as a collective unit there is born an innate desire to surpass the preceding class, and on September 25, 1923, the 350 prospective members of the largest class that had ever enrolled at W. F. C.—the Class of '27—were not at all lacking in that respect. If this longing is ever realized, due credit must be given to those pioneers of other days who have so nobly blazed the trail for their younger brothers. No "Shoo-Fly," 1913 edition of Fords, or any other means of modern conveyance, even that used by Adam in the Garden of Eden, ever brought a more heterogeneous but determined bunch of boys to an institution of learning. There still emanated from our beaming countenances results of strenuous efforts on the part of certain county and city high schools, but we couldn't, or at least were not allowed, to forget that we were typical Freshmen, with all the propensities of the infant order. However, the "ever-ready" reception committee—the Sophomores—gave us a very warm welcome (doubtless warmer than the climate demanded), and our freshness was duly uncanned by these Elder Guiding Brothers. The result was that the entire student body was furnished with no end of amusement for some days following in the form of preliminary musical tryouts for the Glee Club, certain track events, and a feature parade 'neath September's glorious noon.

We endured these tests of manhood for quite a while, and if we entertained the least notion of abandoning hope, it was thoroughly dispelled when L. E. Andrews, president of the student body, announced that the Freshman class would remain in chapel one day to elect a pilot to steer our ship of state through the troubled waters that lay immediately ahead. Not even the dangerous hisses and scraping of feet of upper classmen caused us to swerve from our first important political step, and our confidence and initiative were doubly renewed when it was made known that "Blackboy" Daniel was to be our president. After the exciting season of football had closed, we began to look forward to the Christmas holidays when we might again bask in the sunshine of the familiar scenes of high school days. On December 22 this longing was gratified and no happier a lot could have been ours, but the prospect of coming exams soon made us forget all frivolities. This was the hardest degree that could be conferred upon us, but we successfully weathered the storm without many scars of the conflict. Imagine our wholesale delight when at a big bonfire, built for the occasion by Dr. McMillan, the most staunch friend of the class, gladdened our hearts and caused us to lift our heads in pride by the announcement that our well-worn little caps of distinction might be replaced by a more dignified style of headgear, but surely of no truer colors—Old Gold and Black. As we approached that little station or harbor called "Sophomore," each man of us began to show a new interest in college life by the springy step and bright light in our eye. In the former timidity of our own souls, we began to have a compassionate feeling for those who were to be our smaller brothers the next fall. But our plans for a hair-raising reception for them didn't consume so much of our time that we couldn't complete a real worthy year and look forward with no small degree of pleasure to the beginning of another academic course in the race of life.

If W. F. C. preserved certain records in the annals of student activities, many in the class of '28 would pale in after years to recall the visual picture of a certain entertainment committee actively engaged on September, 1924. They soon discovered that there were not only drill captains in "shirt-tail" parades, but also barbers par excellence. However, after the first few days of hilarity, expressing in some small degree our seeming importance, we settled down on smooth seas and with the exception of a limited few, were big brothers to the younger class. Certain members of our class became prominent in the public halls of debate, winning 4 out of 5 debates, filling in missed links in the Invincible Eleven on the grid-iron, and surpassed many upperclassmen in the race for three additional words—Latin—on our diplomas. Not only these, but other forensic activities make the class of '27 a real benefit to its Alma Mater. Our class began anew the Glee Club and orchestra which are composed mainly of '27 men. And six of our class had the distinct honor of being elected to the Wake Forest Honor Society—Golden Bough. This year was our initial appearance at Meredith and other sister colleges, which has indeed furnished a well-earned and prominent place in our week-end activities. With all due respect to the lighter side of our second year, we were indeed in a sophomore period, not merely in name but action, for the class as a whole made a valiant and by no means small effort to "know"; knowledge was our aim and with the approach of another milestone, deep-laid schemes for worth-while service for the next year began to formulate in our minds. Sophomore experience began to be replaced by Junior dignity that was already peeping over the distant horizon.

The summer's furlough did not blunt the keen edge of our desire to climb ever upward. The campus was a welcomed sight seen through the dim vista of intervening miles when we neared the Capitol City, realizing that our Alma Mater was just beyond. Our aim this year has been one of the highest, keeping ever in mind that, "The winner never quits, and the quitter never wins." There has not been even a small phase of college activities that we have not whole-heartedly participated in, taking our contributions to athletics on the one hand, in which no other has been our peer, and remarkable academic achievements on the other. If reiteration may be allowed, we highly commend our older brothers who have built up traditions and a noble college spirit that have made it possible to attain some degree of success in the third season of your spiritual, mental, and physical development. Our last of all great aims is to make our influence for good and worthy causes felt by our Alma Mater to which we have strived so hard to make at least one permanent contribution—Service.

CLASS HISTORY

THE Class of '28 made its debut upon the Wake Forest campus on the fourteenth of September, 1924. It was a curious and motley array of individuals who composed this group that looked as out of place as a curycoumb in Detroit. Its numbers had flocked from high schools as numerous as their personalities. No section of North Carolina was unrepresented. There were those from the highest peaks of the Blue Ridge to the lowest depths of the swampy east; and scores of others from neighboring commonwealths and distant foreign countries.

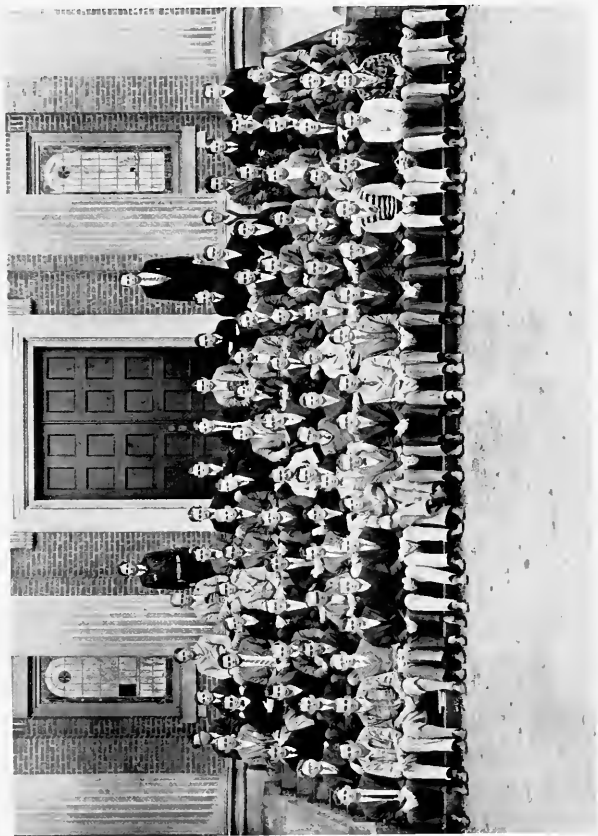

Although the upperclassmen looked over each of us like a dentist hunting for a cavity, this class of Freshmen appeared to them just like every other "Newish" class. There was that same predominance of nature's favorite color—greenness; there was that same attitude of goodly feeling and high aspiration; there was that same desire to visit the fair sex and at the same time preserve our precious hair; there was that same propensity to attend the picture shows and to meet the night trains; and there was that same willingness, even eagerness, to spread college gossip. But notwithstanding all these things the Class of '28 was as different as the Bartender's Guide and the Book of Common Prayer from any other that had ever attended this College, and no one realized this fact more than these humble, verdant Freshmen.

After numerous fake announcements had been made for a meeting of our class, the president of the student body called together all the members of our tribe for the purpose of organization and the election of officers; and upon that occasion there appeared the biggest political caucus ever held in Wake Forest! After the usual harangues and disquisitions, and after a goodly amount of oratory had been poured forth, the class settled down to business and elected the following officers: President, D. M. Clemmons, Vice-President, W. R. Stradley, and Secretary, J. H. Woodward. Under their guidance the "Old Ship '28" weathered the perils of its first year.

In due course of time, September, 1925, we were seen to burst forth from the ties of bondage and flap our wings in the elevated sophomorical air. We took up the reins laid down by our immediate predecessors and directed the "Newish" through the trials and tribulations of the year, not by fear and force, but by kindness and friendship. In the election of G. N. Ashley as president, the class exhibited its wisdom. The leadership of Ashley has been faultless, and under his direction the progress has been spectacular, especially from a standpoint of the benefits that have resulted to the class as a whole. Others intrusted with capacities of service for the class were: Vice-President, C. P. Gaylor; Secretary, J. E. Cloer; Post, S. Funderburke; and Historian, R. F. Lee.

The Class of '28 does not claim to have a corner on the genius of the sphere, nor does it boast that its members are a race of supermen in every activity known to man. It is a good average class, unlike all others, as no two classes are alike in personnel, temperament, or ability. But it does claim to have given worthy men to every religious, intellectual, and athletic activity of which the College boasts.

The class has an athletic record superior to that of any class that has ever registered at Wake Forest College. Last year both the Freshman football and baseball teams, composed exclusively of members of our class, won state championships with unbroken chains of victories. Never before has such a phenomenal record been established. This year our class has a larger representation than any other class on every Demon Deacon athletic team.

Not in athletics only does our class excel, for in the class-room, society hall, B. Y. P. U., glee club, on the campus with our fellow students, and on the debating teams and college publications, our members rank with the best of any class. Thus it is we look forward to our third year at dear old Wake Forest with high hopes of making an even more brilliant record in all college activities.

THE NEWISH

There were days filled with sorrow and days full of woe,

There were hearts that were burdened and weary;
But you don't gain much sympathy, as we all know.

When you pull a long face, sad and dreary.

We had long ago hatched our go-carts to a star!

Our high hopes and ambitions led hither,
But the newness—the strangeness—our gladness did mar,

And the joy in our hearts seemed to wither.

When we'd think we were acting exactly right

And be pluming ourselves as quite clever
Some smug upperclassman would take a delight
In balking each budding endeavor.

But they say that it's darkest before dawn,

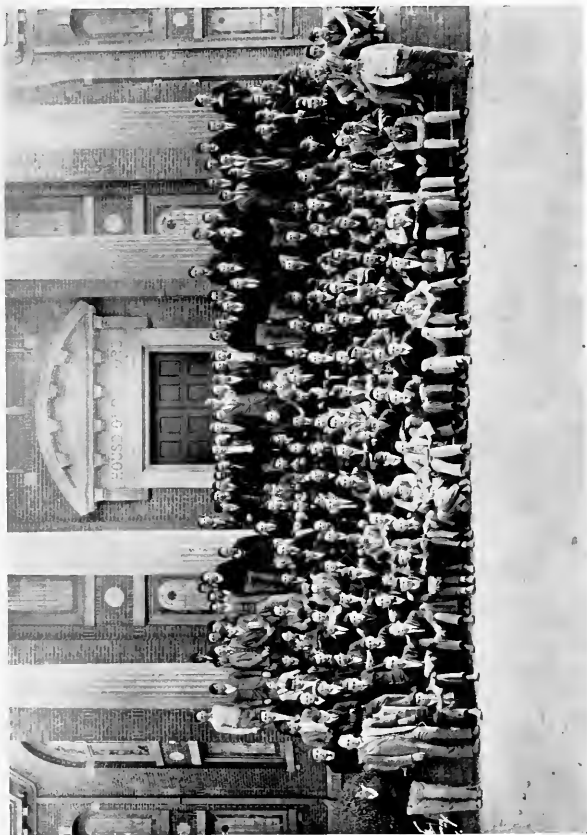

And our troubles that once were so numerous
Are gradually vanishing—in fact, almost gone—
E'en the "profs" are beginning to humor us!

There are rules we must follow, and tasks to be done,

But what matter? We're able to do them,
And when we make blunders in having our fun
You'll find we are all quick to rue them.

So here's to our College, long may she endure!

Let us all strive to add to her glory,
And when future historians write, just be sure
Our class will find a place in their story.
—Poet.

THE FRESHMAN CLASS

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

IN the course of events over seven hundred students came to Wake Forest to take up various lines of college work. The particular date was September 14 and 15, 1925. The majority came to reenter the institution, but others came as first year men. It is of the latter that I wish to speak briefly, giving a short account of their proceedings during the first months at Wake Forest.

We gentlemen of the first year, commonly known as Freshmen, are noted for our absolute "greenishness," and for our total lack of class organization. Consequently, we were (and still are) often the victims of Sophomore pranks. Possibly the thing that will stick longest in our minds is the manner in which we were treated during the first week. It seemed as if the Sophomores, and many of the upperclassmen, had a personal grudge against us and were bent upon the complete annihilation of everyone who wore a freshman cap. It was not a "survival of the fittest," but a survival of those who could remain longest in hiding undetected. After we had lived a week in the "byways and hedges," the upper classes became more brotherly toward us, and from then on we have been allowed to stay in our rooms with more or less peace (generally less). It took several weeks to become entirely accustomed to the new order of things, but we finally began to get our bearings, and it was only a short while until we were in reality Wake Forest men.

Election day brought forth the men who were to guide the class through its first year. A. A. Lennon, captain of the football team, and C. A. Upchurch, were elected president and vice-president respectively. W. D. Holoman, of Weldon, was chosen secretary. These men were thus honored because of their integrity of character, attractive personality, and thorough dependability.

The football season brought with it a Freshman team of superior ability and training. Throughout the entire period this group of red-blooded young men applied themselves with such diligence that there was only one defeat recorded against them when the season was over.

The basketball team, to date, is having unparalleled success. As in football, the splendid training of Coach Hayes is evidenced by the swiftness and accuracy with which each man plays the game, and by the "never say die" spirit which accompanies each encounter with an opposing team.

In a historical document like this, it is just and proper to mention the taking of the class picture. For some time past, it has been the custom of the upper classes to line up just behind the photographer, and as the camera was clicked, pelt the poor Freshmen with missiles of different descriptions, principally magnolia burs. But this year it happened that the picture was taken during the dinner hour, and for once the Freshman class was unmolested. Understand! We are not boasting of this occurrence, but we merely record it as a historical fact, and extend to THE HOWLER management our thanks for their strategy.

As this writing goes to press the majority of us are filled with trepidation and fear, because of the nearness of the first semester examinations. However, we shall meet them undaunted, and rely upon the powers that be to pull us through. Our other reliances, Faith, Hope, and Charity, will stand us in good stead also—Faith, that we are prepared for our examinations; Hope, that we shall pass them, and Charity on the part of our professors if we do pass. It may be recalled that of these, Charity is the greatest.

As the year progresses may we all labor together toward a fuller understanding of our fellow men, remembering that to get anywhere in life we must choose the right path and stick to it.

THE MINISTERIAL GROUP

MINISTERIAL CLASS HISTORY

A LONG with other departments of the College, the Ministerial group has steadily grown until the present class outnumbers any of its predecessors. From the four corners of North Carolina and from five other states, one hundred and seven men, as Matthew of old left his tax gathering, have turned their backs on secular professions and united themselves in the Wake Forest Ministerial Class. They have left their father in the ship and gone after the Master in order that they may become more effective fishers of men. Some of the number have heard the Macedonian call and are answering by preparing themselves for places as teachers, preachers, and medical missionaries on the foreign field.

Perhaps the most distinctive feature of class activity on the campus is the weekly meeting. On each Wednesday evening, the group meets for the study of some phase of the minister's work. This study will be of practical value to each member out in life. Part of these meetings, led by Dr. Cullom, are given to the study of some book on the minister's work. At other times, lectures are delivered by members of the faculty and by other able men who may be reasonably secured. During the year, the class has had a number of helpful lectures.

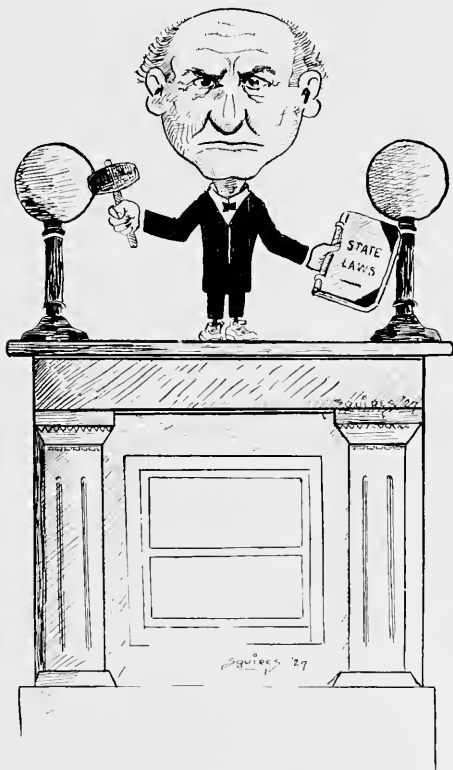

The class furnishes its quota and more to the various college organizations. These men not only reflect honor on themselves in the various organizations, but they contribute their share in bringing honors to their Alma Mater. A larger number of varsity debaters come from the ministerial class than from any other group on the campus. The record made by the debating teams is something of which the College may justly be proud. A part of the personnel of the Glee Club, which won the 1925 state championship, are members of the ministerial class. As may be expected, the men of this group are active in anything that will bring honor to the College or make Wake Forest a better place to live. However, the first and greatest interest is the taking of the good news to those who never hear; or hearing have not made it a part of themselves. Many members of the class are engaged in active pastoral work while pursuing their work as students.

There are a few men to whom the class is especially indebted. Dr. Royal, the patriarchal teacher and counselor, though physically weak, is mentally and spiritually alert. His saintly character is a benediction to all those who come in contact with him. He is the fatherly interpreter and authority of those who are fortunate enough to sit at his feet. Dr. Cullom's devotion to the group is attested by his work in serving, instructing, and leading the class through many difficult problems. Dr. Lynch, distinguished scholar, student of the Bible, and lecturer, is an ever-ready friend of the class. Dr. Bagby, pastor of the local church and chaplain of the college, is the friend of every ministerial student as well as every other student of the college. Dr. Paschal, though not a preacher, is one of the class's most valuable friends.

Former misconceptions and artificial priestly attitudes are passing away, and those preparing for the ministry are learning to live lives of normal upright Christian gentlemen. It seems that the class is becoming more democratic and is approaching nearer to the ideals set forth by Him Who said, "Go ye into all the world."

LAW CLASS HISTORY

THE history of the Law School at Wake Forest, even from its earliest stage, has been crowned with achievements; its annals are a record of glory. Indeed, so many men have passed from its doors to positions of high trust in the state and nation that the law department has become a synonym of success. Never before has a law class of Wake Forest possessed the record that may be claimed by the present class. Many have been its accomplishments, many have been the honors reflected upon it by its members, and continuous success has been the rule rather than the exception.

With an enrollment of over two hundred, the largest class yet to read law at Wake Forest, and over forty men preparing for the supreme court, the class settled down to work. Noble Summersill was chosen to pilot the class across the bar.

Since its establishment, the Wake Forest Law Department has ranked among the highest in efficiency. The credit for this position goes to our worthy law faculty, headed by our beloved Dr. Needham Y. Galley, who for more than a quarter of a century has bent every effort towards the success of the school. Professors E. W. Timberlake, Jr., and R. B. White have very efficiently supported Dr. Galley in training the young "legal lights." In all, over a thousand men have gone out from the halls of Wake Forest to practice the high profession, a number unsurpassed by any other law school in North Carolina.

Out of the forty-six men of this class who took the supreme court examination in January, forty-two were granted licenses.

Not only is the Class of 1926 active in the field of law, but it is represented in every phase of college life. From our ranks Lamar Caudle was chosen as president of the student body, Horton as member of the student council, and Winberry and Horn as members of the student legislature.

In the wonderful athletic achievements of Wake Forest during the past few years, members of our class have played an important part. In football Emmerson, Greason, Oler, Meekins, Collier, Riley, Person, Morton, Clayton, James, Hood, and Chakales all helped to bring victory to our Alma Mater. On the diamond Vick Sorrell, the master of North Carolina twirlers, was the horror of our strongest competitors. Simmons, his co-twirler, was equally dreaded. Other members of our class on the baseball team were Hood, catcher; Greason, second base; and Riley, third base. James, Emmerson, Oler, and Vickers are our representatives in basketball, with Skinner as manager.

In the limited space granted here it is, to say the least, impossible to give a complete record of the Wake Forest Law School and the Class of '26. We feel sure that the active and energetic members of our class will make this history more illuminating in the years to come as they enter into the practice of the profession at the bar and become interpreters and makers of law.

MEDICAL CLASS HISTORY

MORE than once it has been said, "Let the past be forgotten; it is now history and can't be changed." But let us turn back and briefly review the history of the Medical Class of '26, that in the years of study and practice yet before us, we may have a reminder of those vivid years beyond recall when we started the study of our profession.

When the first roll was called in September, 1924, there were only two strange sheep in the fold of twenty-two members. All the rest had pursued their pre-medical work at Wake Forest, and had already formed close friendships. Another factor in the success and loyalty of this class is the fact that all except three of the fold are of native breed, and were of course, already acclimated. Two of the three of stray breed were imported from our neighboring state, South Carolina. In spite of this they have proved to be worthy sons of Wake Forest College, and we treasure them as associates. The third migrated from the state of New Jersey.

From the first day, even till now as we near the end, our short stay at Wake Forest College has been one of happiness and sorrow, much work, and a friendly spirit of cooperation among both students and faculty.

Our class even now is only in the embryonic stage of its development in the vast field of medical knowledge. However, our classmates have already put our class among the foremost medical bodies of all times. Dr. DeLoatch has satisfied himself beyond a doubt that the blood circulates in the human anatomy. Dr. Hollowell astounded the authorities and the leading scientists in the field of bacteriology when he announced that germs cause certain diseases.

Others have completed important researches in this field. Many of our class are in sympathy with the anti-vivisectionists and have spared the lives of many white rats and guinea pigs. These lovers of nature and her creatures have often spared these animals by testing the virulence of various strains of bacteria by sucking them (accidentally) into their mouths. As a result of these practices we shall not be surprised to see some day that some of our class have sacrificed their lives for the advancement of medical science.

Among the other feats of this class are the discovery of the use of the appendix, and the discovery that a broken arm need not be set if you saw it off just above the break. One thing only thus far has luffed us in our researches. We have not been able as yet to determine the cause of the far greater activity of the tongue of woman as compared to the activity of man's tongue. No doubt some of our keener classmates may yet determine the cause and find a suitable counteracting agent.

The record that our class has made is one to be proud of and we can now realize the rewards of our labors. Our achievements have been made possible by the capable leadership and inspiration of our dean, Dr. T. D. Kitchen, and the untiring efforts of our able faculty.

Now as we part to pursue our courses in other institutions, we carry with us lasting memories of our days at Wake Forest. We leave with an undying love of our Alma Mater and a pledge to ever uphold her ideals.

COACHES

COACH "HANK" GARRITY

is a product of Princeton University. He came to Wake Forest three years ago and on the gridiron he has made a wonderful record. This record was marred only by the mid-season form of the Deacons this year. It was after this that he showed his superior ability. He rounded the team into shape so it beat what might well have been considered the best team in three states. His achievements in baseball and basketball as coach have been no less auspicious.

COACH "BOB" HAYES

is another factor in the progress and development of athletics at Wake Forest. Coach "Bob," as freshman coach, has trained the newish to fill the gaps left in Garrity's varsity line, and each year has proved that they have been well trained. His teams have been characterized by efficiency, and he has turned out his share of the state champs of the freshman variety. This year Coach "Bob" took charge of the varsity basketball in mid-season and gave an excellent account of his work.

COACH "PHIL" UTLEY

is one of Wake Forest's own, and rightly she feels proud of this gentleman. He is the type of coach that any school would be glad to have as trainer of her sons. He has served as coach at Carson-Newman, Lenoir, and at his Alma Mater. He is now physical director—"King of the Gym." Here his rule is unquestioned. This year he is also lending his aid for the development of the track team.

COACH JOHN CADDELL

is another of Wake Forest's sons. For the last few years he has served as coach of the Freshman baseball team. In this capacity he has produced state champs both last year and the year before. This year with the resignation of Coach Garrity he was assigned the job of guiding the varsity baseball squad. He and his team are slated to make baseball fans take notice this spring. Coach John will deliver the goods this year.

FOOTBALL REVIEW

THE football season of 1925 was one of the most successful for Wake Forest since the great college game has been in existence at the Baptist institution. It is only overshadowed by the wonderful record made by the Wake Forest Deacons during the year just preceding when the team won the undisputed championship of North Carolina. One loss, to N. C. State, kept the Deacons from again claiming state honors and this did not come until near the end of the season.

The 1925 season marked the third year of Coach Henry Garrity's régime at Wake Forest, and the wonderful team that represented the college on the gridiron in this season was typical of every Garrity-coached team that North Carolina sport followers have known. It is true he did not win a state championship, yet he accomplished a feat that would have seemed impossible two years before—he defeated the University of North Carolina, a feat that no other team in the state has accomplished during the past few years.

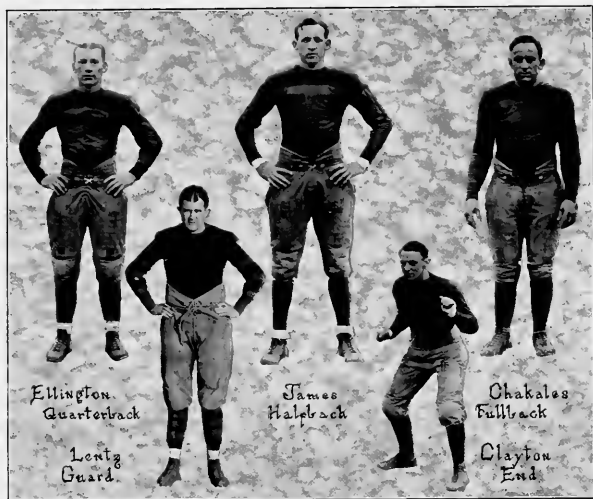

In addition to the defeat of Carolina the 1925 Deacon team defeated Furman University by a 9 to 0 score after that team had won the championship of South Carolina and had defeated the champions of Virginia. It seemed hard for Wake Forest to lose her own state championship when she had so completely annihilated the champion college team of the two neighboring states, but the percentage did it, and the State College defeat could not be erased.

Wake Forest entered the season with the loss of four regular players of the championship team of 1924. Moran, Pagano, Jones, and Armstrong had all been lost by graduation. The team started the season with the first game on the schedule against their old rivals, Carolina. The University eleven was favored before the contest and, although Wake Forest had defeated the Carolinians the year before, many followers of the sport had maintained that the victory did not show a clear-cut superiority for the Baptist eleven. The game terminated with Wake Forest in the lead by one touchdown. Carolina did not threaten during the entire game and was forced to play defensive football throughout. At no time was the ball advanced far into Wake Forest territory, while the Carolina goal was threatened time after time. Wake Forest was at once conceded to have the best team in the state by practically every sport writer who saw the contest.

The team ran into a slump on the week-end after the Carolina game and permitted Davidson, known for their tenacity and never-say-die spirit, to hold them to a 7-7 tie. The game was a disappointment to Wake Forest followers for they had expected the team that so overshadowed the Carolina team the week before to run rough-hod over the lighter Presbyterian aggregation. They had not reckoned with the fighting spirit of Davidson nor the fact that the Deacons had been forced to let up after the intense drilling necessary to win from Carolina.

Wake Forest still ranked highest in the state championship race for the other teams in the state were falling to Carolina one at a time. The Deacons defeated Guilford, Duke, and Lenoir Rhyne by very substantial scores and held the powerful Florida team to a 24 to 3 score. In fact it looked as if there was nothing in the way to hinder the team from ringing up another championship.

State College was met near the close of the season and not even the most optimistic followers of the Technicians hoped to win from the team that had not lost a game in the state in two years. However, the unexpected happened and the Deacons, by some chance, seemed absolutely powerless before the terrible onslaught of the Tech team, and the result was the loss of the game and the championship of North Carolina. For Wake Forest supporters who saw the game it was one of the greatest catastrophes in the annals of the college.

The Garrity machine could not remain in a slump two games in succession, and the Deacon supporters had hopes of seeing their team redeem themselves when Furman was met on the following week in Asheville. Their hopes were fully justified. The Asheville game was North Carolina Baptists against South Carolina Baptists, with the South Carolinians having the advantage from previous results. It was the last chance for Garrity's men to show that the 1925 Deacon team was the best in the state and they lived up to the occasion. They licked Furman by a 9-0 score and thereby added a fitting climax to a season that had been initiated by defeating the University of North Carolina.

The Deacon team had few individual stars during the 1925 season. It is true that Rackley and Greason still carried the ball the greatest number of yards as in the two years previous, yet the bulwark of strength that had characterized the Deacon line during the two years of Garrity teams here was responsible for many of those yards gained by these fleet backs. Karleskint, Sykes, Ober, and Chakales could also be counted among those present when there was some ground-gaining to be done. These backs were all rated among the best in the state.

In the line there was Bill Riley on one end who was a unanimous choice for a berth on the mythical all-state eleven and who certainly deserved this distinction. He was in every game of the year and was always the fastest man in either line, tackling with the power of a 200-pounder and never getting knocked off his feet. Emmerson, playing tackle, was the tower of strength in the line when on defense and was always ready to open up a hole when a play was called for on his side of the line. He was undoubtedly the hardest man in the state to run a play over.

With Johnson, Martin, Morton, and Lentz at guard, and L. Person, Collier, and Ellerbe helping Emmerson with the two tackle positions, these line positions were well filled. The pivot position had Woodward and Reitzel doing duty during the entire year and both were men of plenty of power.

A review of the games played and their scores show that Wake Forest scored a total of 176 points during the season to 40 by all the opposing teams. This record is possibly the greatest achievement ever accomplished by a Deacon team and is one of the best ever made by any North Carolina College. Of the points scored by the opposition the University of Florida was responsible for 24 of them.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL REVIEW, 1925

ON September 16 some sixty aspiring football players responded to the call of Coach Bob Hays for the first freshman football workout of the season. The candidates represented some of the leading high schools of the state, and although at the time little was known of the different men, it soon became evident that Wake Forest was to be represented by a good freshman football team.

After four weeks of strenuous training the reduced freshman squad journeyed to Wingate to do battle with the Wingate Junior College team. The Little Deacons presented a powerful defensive machine, but the offense was rather weak. Wake Forest won, however, 2-0. The following Saturday, Coach Hays sent a changed backfield combination upon Gore Field against the Newport News Apprentice School and the Junior Deacons upset the dope by holding the visitors to a 12-12 tie. Showing still more improvement, on the next Saturday, Wake Forest right royally entertained the Wolflets of N. C. State with a 6-0 defeat. This was the second straight defeat to have been administered the N. C. State Freshmen by a Wake Forest yearling team. The Wake Forest Freshmen next encountered the Duke University first year team at Durham. The local newish fought gallantly, but their fight was matched by that of the Duke Freshmen. The game resulted in a 12-12 deadlock. From this game until the close of the season Wake Forest showed a marked improvement in every game. On Armistice Day the Freshman team met and conquered the fast eleven of Bingham Military School, 17-7. The Little Deacons were met with the usual Asheville hospitality, publicity, and general good treatment. The Wake Forest team received much favorable comment from Asheville papers. The climax of the season came on the following Saturday when Coach Hays' men outshone themselves to battle down the versatile eleven of High Point College, by the score of 20-6. The Junior Deacons showed their best form of the season in this game, and with this victory placed the mark finis on a successful season.

The season as a whole was a success, and the team is worthy to rank along with other recent Wake Forest teams. No definite decision was reached concerning the State Championship, but certain it is that Wake Forest's team has a claim that is as good as any. Some of the men on this team will compose the future varsity teams here, and will be competent to hold high Wake Forest's colors.

BASKETBALL REVIEW

STARTING the 1926 basketball season with only one regular varsity man of the preceding season Wake Forest had very little to look forward to in the court game. It looked as if the loss of Greason, Daniel, and Emmerson was more than the Baptists could overcome in one season, and supporters of athletics, both at the college and among the alumni, settled back to see Wake Forest come out at the foot in the annual race for first honors among the colleges in the state.

The season started off in a very mediocre manner and the loss of the second game on the schedule partly justified the most pessimistic sport prognosticators at Wake Forest in claiming that there was no basketball material out for the team. The team took a Virginia trip to initiate the season and lost two out of three games played. However, basketball stock picked up somewhat on the following week when Clemson College was met on the local floor and whipped by a substantial score. It was the first opportunity that students at the college had to see the team that had been whipped into shape by Garrity play, and most of the student body took advantage of it. They saw a team that had the earmarks of a real quintet and one that showed that practice together was all that was needed to produce one of the flashiest basketball teams that Wake Forest had ever seen.

CAROLINA DEFEATED

The 1926 basketball team of Wake Forest was really made when the Baptists met Carolina on the local court for the first game between the two institutions during the season. For the first time in five years the White Phantoms of Carolina fell before a North Carolina team. There was only one point difference in the scores but the Deacon five stayed in front throughout the entire game and plainly showed that it was the best team that won the game. If the Wake Forest team had done nothing throughout the entire season but win that game it would have been classed among the best teams that the college ever produced.

The loss of Garrity, whose resignation took effect on the day following the Carolina game, cast a shadow over the remainder of the Baptists' schedule. Many students predicted the abandonment of basketball altogether for the remainder of the season and there was much rumor around the college to the effect that the team would turn in all uniforms. However, the men who had won from Carolina proved they were men as well as athletes and in less than two days had pledged their support to the athletic management of the college during the remainder of the season. Bob Hays was elevated from freshman to varsity coach and immediately took charge of the team.

WON THIRD PLACE

A general summary of the season at its close will serve to show just what Hays did with the team. Wake Forest scored 570 points during the season while her opponents were scoring 478. She easily won third place among North Carolina colleges by going through the entire season with only four losses to teams in the state. State College was the only institution in the state that succeeded in whipping the Baptist five twice. Carolina won the second game between the two institutions and Guilford succeeded in overcoming all sport dope that had existed prior to the game by whipping Wake Forest by a one-point margin in the first tilt between Quakers and Baptists during the season. The second game between the two institutions was a complete walk-a-way for the Wake Forest team and the score was more than doubled.

The team was composed of Ellington, James, Woodward, Ober, Vickers, Barnwell, Simmons, and Emmerson. Ellington could well be said to be the find of the season. His accuracy at the goal was a big factor in every win piled up by the Baptists during the season. James, playing the other forward, was one of the fastest men in the state, and was second to Ellington in points scored at the end of the season. Ober was possibly the fastest man on the floor and as captain aided materially in generaling the team while on the floor. Emmerson returned to the college near the middle of the basketball season and was one of the mainstays both on defensive and offensive in all the games in which he participated. Barnwell and Simmons did not play regularly but showed plenty of speed in the games they played.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL REVIEW, 1926

FRESHMAN basketball, although just in its second year at Wake Forest, has become one of the features of athletics at the college. Following in the footsteps of the team that had preceded it, the 1926 freshman team at Wake Forest started out in earnest with full intentions of giving some team a race for state honors. While the inadequate schedules of some of the colleges in the state makes it almost impossible for a freshman basketball team to be in position to claim a championship, the Wake Forest team, by going through a schedule of twenty games which included every freshman team in the state with one exception, and losing only two games, was awarded the state championship for 1926 by sport writers over the state.

There has possibly never been a freshman team in North Carolina that tackled a heavier schedule than did the young Deacons for the 1926 season. Besides playing all the freshman teams obtainable, the Baptists went into the extreme western part of the state and played the best teams to be found in and around Asheville, where they stayed for over a week. Among the victims on that trip were Mars Hill College, Asheville Amateurs, Candler High School, and other aggregations that had made enviable records in the court game.

A remarkable feature of the 1926 freshman team was that four of its members were from Buncombe County. Three were from Asheville and the fourth was a product of Mars Hill College. Three of these men played regularly on the team and the fourth was a regular during the latter part of the season.

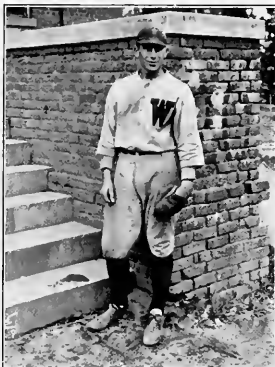

Possibly the most outstanding member of the team was Dowtin, who was elected captain of the squad at the outset. He scored almost a hundred more points than his nearest competitor on the team and was the fastest man on either team in practically every contest of the season. Paschal and Carter played the other forward and both showed earmarks of varsity material for the coming years. Owen and Weir, both of Buncombe County, played the two guard positions, and R. Powell played center. Other members of the team were Furches, J. Powell, and Bryan.

BASEBALL, 1925

FRANK ARMSTRONG.....Captain
HENRY M. GARRITY.....Coach
W. L. McIVER.....Manager, '26

Captain Armstrong is one of our All-state men. Frank was the leading batter of the 1925 team, and was so far in front of his competitors that he was the only man mentioned by sports writers and coaches to hold down the initial bag on the mythical All-state nine of 1925. Much of the success of the season was due to the influence and hard work of this valuable man.

"Pop" SIMMONS, Captain 1926
Pitcher, Outfielder

"Pop" Simmons—Sorrell's All-state partner in the twirling department of the Baptist squad—is one of the most valuable men on the team, being used to much advantage in the outfield when not on the mound. He foils opposing batsmen with his twist-ers, and hits, for man-size "knocks," every ball that looks good to him; he also takes advantage of those that do not look good.

"Vic" SORRELL
Pitcher

"Vic" Sorrell is one of the All-state twirlers of the State Champion Demon Deacons. The very mention of "Vic's" name suggests very vividly a baseball speeding for sixty feet six inches at lightning-rate speed. He is, indeed, a speed demon—the best pitcher produced by North Carolina in many years.

BRODIE HOOD
Catcher

Brodie was on the receiving end of many strikeouts for "Vic" Sorrell, he having caught practically every game during the past season. Hood is a heavy man behind the bat, and one of the surest hitters on the club.

SUMMARY VARSITY BASEBALL SEASON, 1925

WHEN "Hank" Garrity, on March 1, 1925, issued the call for baseball men to report on Gore Field, the prospects for a successful baseball season were, to say the least, discouraging. There was plenty of material, but it was feared by those who stood on the sidelines in the first stages of the practice season that the impossible could not be accomplished; that is, that a smooth-working team could not be developed practically overnight out of a squad almost of new men insofar as varsity experience is concerned.

Coach Garrity employed a practice system somewhat new to the Deacon teams of former years. He knew that he had very poor prospects for a winning club, therefore, Coach "Hank" proceeded with the idea that his team would lose some games, and in the carrying out of this idea he matched the inexperienced Deacons against the strongest teams which he

MURRAY GREASON
Second Base

Murray has well-earned a permanent berth on the keystone sack in making this his fourth "W." He fielded for an average of one thousand during the past season, was a safe hitter, and was mentioned by many sports writers for the All-state position.

"BILL" TIMBERLAKE
Shortstop

Bill was shifted this year from the outfield to shortstop and turned out to be the "find" of the season. As "Hank" Garrity's lead-off man on the offense he was a constant threat to the opposing moundsmen.

"BILL" RILEY
Third Base

Bill goes after every ball that is hit even, many times, when out of his territory. Bill is a fair hitter, and, being a natural athlete, he is assured of a permanent berth on the Varsity.

could secure for exhibition games, wishing to lose games, at the beginning of the season, against baseball players of experience (men who would, and did, give our fielders and pitchers an abundance of practice) rather than to lose games, later on, to college teams. And besides giving them practice, these "Leaguers" passed along to the Baptist squad some dope as to the national pastime "of which they knew not." The above-mentioned games, with such teams as Wilson and Rocky Mount, of the Virginia League, and with Raleigh, of the Piedmont League, with their "big guns" showing the agate by the boys, gave the Baptists the very best preparation that could be desired for meeting the comparatively "little guns" of the North Carolina college nines. In addition to games with these teams, the Senior Deacons tackled the scrapping Little Deacons, under the tutelage of Coach John Caddell, when neither team was otherwise occupied, and the Varsity secured some very valuable practice from this strong source. We have no doubt that this phase of the practice period contributed its full share to the success of the State Champions.

However, in spite of the fact that all odds were against them, the Deacons had that determination and will-power which it takes to win, and demonstrated to the state by their

SEATON HOLT
Outfield

Seaton was no doubt the surest fielder in the outer gardens on the 1925 team, in addition to having a batting average to be proud of. Holt played on last year's Freshman team, and has made good this season.

MOTSINGER
Outfield

Grady was also with Coach Caddell's aggregation last season and has made an excellent outfielder for the Senior Deacons, being fleet of foot; in addition to wielding a heavy willow.

"Joe" HAMRICK
Utility

Joe was a valuable utility man in both the infield and the outfield. In the main he was an understudy to Captain Armstrong on the initial sack, and he made an able substitute.

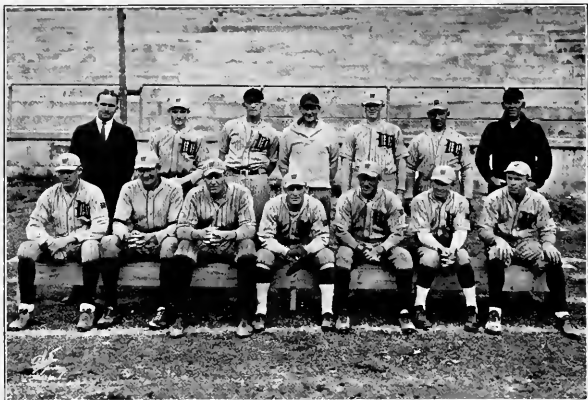

"FLUNK" SMALL
Outfield

One of the best fielding and heaviest hitting outfielders on the team, but his studies in medicine kept him out of some few games. Small was one of the few veterans on the 1925 team of Champions.

performance on Riddick Field on the afternoon of April 13, in that never-to-be-forgotten Easter Monday classic, that they were yet "in the race." Throughout the entire schedule of twenty-two games which had been arranged by Manager Harris, this same spirit dominated the men.

The season of 1925 was a distinct success, the Demon Deacons having lost only one game in North Carolina, thereby being crowned the undisputed Champions of North Carolina! The personnel of the team which brought this honor to Wake Forest is as follows: Captain Frank Armstrong, first base; Sorrell, Simmons, and Kitchin, pitchers; Hood and Coward, catchers; Greason, second base; Timberlake, short stop; Riley, third base; Holt, Motsinger, Small, Hamrick, and Berry, outfield.

The success of the season may be attributed to several things, all of which seem to be of equal importance. First, there is the excellent teamwork and spirit displayed by the entire team. Then, there is the superior quality of mound work done by our premier all-state twirlers, Sorrell and Simmons. Another matter of great importance is the heavy wielding of the willow by Captain Armstrong and Simmons, they having hit for an average of .380 and .372 respectively.

FRESHMAN BASEBALL CHAMPIONS OF NORTH CAROLINA—1925

FRESHMAN BASEBALL REVIEW

MARCH 1, 1925, witnessed the coming together of no small number of satellites of the baseball world—both high school and preparatory—on the old Athletic Field on Faculty avenue. When the call was issued Coach John Caddell was greeted by seventy-five aspirants for a place on his Freshman nine. However, Coach John needed only a week or two to select the most promising men out of this horde of material, and, with about fifteen men who worked hard enough to make his squad, he changed his headquarters to Gore Field, where these Little Deacons gave battle to Garrity's Demon Deacons whenever neither team was otherwise engaged.

The men whom Coach Caddell finally selected to compose his team are as follows: Captain Joe Clayton, shortstop; K. Joyner, James, and Smith, pitchers; Phelps and Deaton, catchers; Brandon, first base; Chakales, second base; P. Joyner, third base; Jones, Baucom, and Melnis, outfield.

Manager Melver arranged a twenty-game schedule, and the little Deacons won nineteen out of the twenty games scheduled without any difficulty. Then, to end a perfect season, the Freshmen defeated the Varsity in an exhibition game played at Henderson on May 22.

The season was an outstanding success, as the Freshmen, by playing air-tight baseball throughout the season, brought to Wake Forest campus the undisputed Freshman Baseball Championship of North Carolina! The hitting of Captain Clayton, whose batting average for the season stands at .425; the hitting, clean fielding, and headwork of the entire team; the superior quality of twirling exhibited by Key Joyner and Ralph James; all of these things must be mentioned in enumerating the reasons for the success of the season.

Last, but by no means least, there is the work of the man on the bench—a man who has never given up until the last minute of the game—Coach John C. Caddell!

TRACK

TRACK REVIEW

FOR the past two years Wake Forest has shown considerable improvement in every field of athletics, and our track record shows improvement that is very promising. Although we cannot say that the entire season was successful, yet our record shows that we have developed some material that is very promising, and we can now look forward to a good track team, as the foundation is well established.

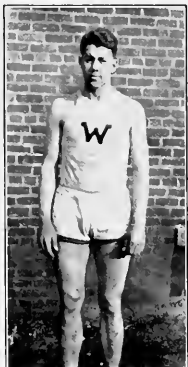

The success of our Cross Country team is well worthy of mention, in that the Varsity won every meet, while the Newish lost one meet. This is an enviable record for any school in this field.

The outstanding men on the team are Bailey, Daniel, Green, Hawes, Oher, Rackley, and Richmond.

The following record of the meets we participated in will show our improvement:

The Cross Country Meet held November 11 at Wake Forest with Trinity: Wake Forest 40, Trinity 20, "Nirmit" Bailey of Wake Forest winning first place. The meet held at Raleigh, November 15: Wake Forest 34, State College 21, Bailey again winning first honor. At Chapel Hill, November 22: Wake Forest 41, Carolina 20, Bailey winning the $2\frac{1}{2}$ -mile race in 13 minutes.

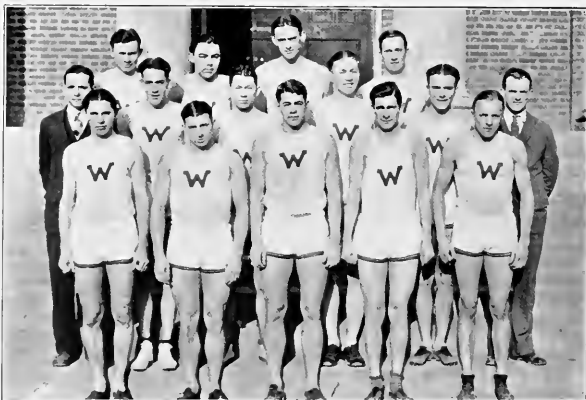

At the track meet held at University of Richmond: University of Richmond, $83\frac{1}{4}$; Wake Forest 42 $\frac{1}{2}$. At Hampden-Sidney, Va.: Hampden-Sidney, 49; Wake Forest, 76. At Wake Forest: Wake Forest, $57\frac{1}{2}$; Duke, 68 $\frac{3}{4}$. At Wake Forest: Wake Forest, 51; William and Mary, 75.

TENNIS

TENNIS REVIEW

THE tennis season began last fall with a match with Carolina and a two-day trip. The team had been chosen by a three-round tournament lasting through one whole week.

Those successful in making the team were: Powers, Captain; Newton, Agelasto, Slate, Sawyer, and Burroughs. The meet with Carolina was lost, but Newton furnished the surprise of the day by defeating Whitaker, state singles champion, in a beautiful match. Guilford and Davidson were played while on the trip. The team was an easy winner in the meet with Guilford, but the encounter with Davidson was lost after a hard fight.

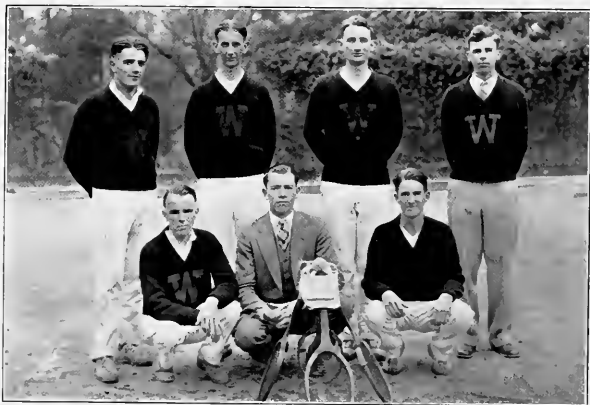

Prospects for the spring games at Wake Forest are very bright, in view of the fact that all of the lettermen will be back, with the exception of Newton. M. L. Slate, the manager, has arranged one of the heaviest schedules the team has had since tennis was made a major sport at Wake Forest. The spring schedule calls for matches with every college in the state, a three-day trip to Elon, Greensboro Country Club, and Winston-Salem Country Club; two out of state meets—Furman University and Washington and Lee; and a week's trip into Virginia.

THE GOLDEN BOUGH

The Golden Bough had its origin with Dean D. B. Bryan. Under his direction each member of the faculty, in the spring of 1925, was asked to submit a list of ten men in college "who in his opinion, all things considered, give greatest promise." Those men whose names appeared most frequently were in turn asked to name ten of their fellow students. The result showed that thirty-nine men had received three or more votes.

These men, following the suggestions of Dr. Poteat and Dean Bryan, formed the organization now known as The Golden Bough. The Golden Bough has as its purpose "the perpetuation at Wake Forest College of the high standard of scholarship, Christian character, and efficient leadership."

Selection for membership into The Golden Bough is made by a combined vote of the faculty and of The Golden Bough. One must receive at least five votes, two of which must be faculty votes. Freshmen are ineligible, and not over two per cent of the student body may be admitted at any one election.

The names of the men who are charter members of The Golden Bough are as follows:

LITHUANIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

EUZELIAN HALL

THE LITERARY SOCIETIES

By G. W. PASCHAL

The Philomathean and Euzelian Literary societies were organized on February 14, 1835, shortly after the beginning of the second session of Wake Forest Institute. At that time the students numbered about seventy. These were divided by lot between the two societies, Mr. James C. Dockery, of Richmond County, casting the lots for the Philomathean Society, and Mr. Hiram K. Person, of Moore County, casting those of the Euzelian.

Great interest was taken in the societies from the first. Soon an intense rivalry had developed. A writer in the Biblical Recorder of September 16, 1835, says:

"A very unhappy state of things existed among the students during the latter part of last term. The two societies absorbed all feelings and all interests. Jealousies arose, and then antipathies, and hostilities were carried so far that violent prejudices divided brethren of the same profession. This state of things became quite alarming, and the question frequently occurred, tantum animi exultatio irae."

An armistice came with the great religious revival of 1835, but throughout the remainder of the nineteenth century the halls of the two societies were much like two armed camps. There was always a bitter fight for new members, and many a stratagem to get them. On the occasion of the celebration of Anniversary in 1854, as there were at first only orations, society was clearly pitted against society, and hostilities came out into the open. When, in 1872, the public debate was added precaution was taken to arrange the speakers so that a member of one society might have as his colleague a member of the other. Under any other arrangement there would have been danger of a much more serious battle than one of words.

This rivalry, however, had its better side, and society men of former days have looked upon its weakening as an evidence of decadence. It created and maintained a strong devotion of the members to the societies. Under its influence students would attend long sessions of debate without grumbling, often in the early days, as President Potat says, sitting through long winter evenings in unheated halls, wrapped in heavy overcoats and with hot bricks at their feet. Men of the upper classes were faithful to attend, and, as sympathetic critics, lend the advantage of their experience to the training and development of the neophytes.

Another very valuable feature of the societies until recent years was the business meeting. This was a pure democracy. It was here that the character of the men became known. If one was a weakling, he could not conceal it, if he had the qualities of leadership they soon became manifest; if he was lacking in moral fire his fellows found it out. One's society mates also knew his financial status; if he had money, they used him with a will where individual expense was involved; if he was a poor fellow, struggling to make his way through college, they were lenient and sympathetic and sometimes able to help. The society chastened every member with its firm but reasonable discipline, and in the humblest stimulated respect for himself as worthy to be a member of a brotherhood in which every one was set for the improvement of himself and every other. There was a mutual loyalty which was not forgotten outside the society hall.

The first public appearance of the societies was on July 4, 1835. The exercises of that day were in their charge, and the oration was by Mr. James C. Dockery of the Philomathezian Society. At eleven o'clock in the morning the two societies formed in line and marched to the residence of President Wait, where now stands the Administration Building, and received their banners, from the hands of Mrs. Wait, who with Dr. Wait and the presidents of the societies, was standing in the balcony, so high up that the standard-bearers had to be raised on the shoulders of their mates. These banners, probably designed and made by Mrs. Wait, were of silk, the Philomathezian white instead of red as at present, the Euzelian blue. As is evident from the speeches of presentation made by Mrs. Wait and the closing paragraphs of Mr. Dockery's oration, these banners were already painted with their present symbolic designs, and contained the society mottos, Incrisium vivam aut faciam (Eu.), and Etic quam viseri malo (Phi.). Something of the enthusiasm of the occasion may be understood from the following words of the chronicler of the events of the day:

"The banner was then handed to the standard-bearer (Phi.); the band played "Hail Columbia." The banner, the silken folds of the banner gracefully waving in the breeze, the countenance of the young men intensely interested, the music, the silent wave of the hat, produced a sensation that forced eyes to glisten with tears."

Until 1854 the societies celebrated their anniversary each in its own hall. In that year, as has been said, was the first public celebration, with orations, one by a representative of each society. With the addition of the Public Debate in 1872, the celebration has continued unchanged to the present day, except that beginning with 1925 the day was changed to February 12. The Society Day, consisting also of a public debate, and orations, about the last of October, was added in 1914. In 1897 was the first intercollegiate debate. This was in Raleigh with representatives of Trinity College.

The list of men who have participated in the public functions of the societies is in itself sufficient evidence of the value of the society training. It would be hard to make up another list of North Carolinians who have done a more beneficial and honorable service to church and State. Among the preachers are White, Pritchard, the Dixons, E. M. Potetz; among the lawyers Covington, Guiley, Meekins; among the statesmen the Kitchens, Bickett, Welch; among the teachers and college executives Potetz, Rullick, Sikes. And there are five hundred others.

In the societies is due also the beginning of the College Library. Until the completion of the Heck-Williams Building in 1879 the societies had each its own books on shelves around the walls of its hall on the top floor of the old dormitory building; halls which had been assigned to the societies on the completion of the building in 1838. On moving to their present halls the societies donated their books, numbering nearly eight thousand, to the College, and turned over to the College the collection of library fees.

RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA

The Howler,
Wake Forest College,
Wake Forest, North Carolina.
Dear Sirs:

Our approval of The Howler as an advertising medium is but slight evidence of the desire on our part to co-operate with the activities of Wake Forest students.

At one of our regular meetings we resolved to more closely identify ourselves with the college and school life of Wake Forest and to that end have appointed a good-will committee to bring to the attention of our members the activities and wishes of your student body.

An invitation is here expressed to communicate with us your ideas as to how best we may work in harmony with your students to develop a broader spirit of good will.

We believe it may be the privilege of this Association, formed by contributors to the educational facilities which your men enjoy, to ask that the members of your student body look over the merchandise offered by our members before placing orders with representatives of out-of-state-firms who cannot participate in your activities nor support your college as do our members.

Reciprocity in the exchange of values is conducive to good will and better understanding and the greater development of both is our hope.

Yours very sincerely,

MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION OF RALEIGH

DELIVERING COAL BY WIRE

Even in this age of miracles, people would hardly credit the assertion if they were told that invisible coal and water are being delivered by wire.

Yet that is exactly what this and every other public utility in the nation is doing every hour of the day and night.

It requires millions of tons of coal and millions of gallons of water to generate the electricity which provides light or drives the motors of industry. Invisible coal also is transported in pipes when gas is used.

In hundreds of other ways the utilities invisibly serve their customers, cheaper and better than they could serve themselves.

WHY I FLUNKED HISTORY

I thought that:

The Battle of Tours was fought when I wanted to go to Terre Haute and my girl wanted to go to Indianapolis.

Joan of Arc was Noah's wife.

St. Bernard was a dog.

Monks had tails and lived in trees.

A fief was a musical instrument.

The Scotch Highland was a drink.

I also slept in class. Now history is repeating itself—I'm taking it over.

There were some young "jacks" from State

Who for a thrashing couldn't wait,

So they came to our town

To paint all around—

They nearly went back in State.

—Messenger Boy.

Dr. Lynch (on Bible 4): "A man that can sing and won't sing ought to be sent to Sing Sing. Now, Mr. Malone, where is Sing Sing?"
Malone: "In China, Dr. Lynch."

With due respect for the local pressing club (storage plant) we all wish for the days of old as pictured in the following poem:

In days of old
When knights were bold,
And sheet-iron trousers wore,
They lived in peace;
For then a crease
Would last ten years or more.

In those old days
They had the craze
For cast-iron shirts—and wore 'em!
And there was bliss
Enough in this—
The laundry never tore 'em.

WHY HE WON

The Score in his favor was zero
"Bye" needed some pep to make him go.
His girl sent the wire
That set him on fire
She said, "Darling boy, you're my hero."

At U. N. C. I've heard tell
They used to give football teams——,
But the Deacons went around
And tamed them down;
Now they submit very well.

TO THE SUMMER SCHOOL GIRLS

I might praise your ruby lips,
Say your cheeks were white as snow,
Say your face would launch more ships
Than Helen's long ago.

I might sing your praise in rhyme
Yea, without a thought of self—
But, fair lady, all the time
I'd only kid myself.

Freshman on Physics Lab: "Why does Professor Lake wear such high collars?"

"Red" Hawthorth: "So if an explosion occurs he can duck his head."

Sophomore Lee: "Freshman tell us where you're from."

Freshman Daniels: "Armenia."

All-wise Goodman: "What county is that in? I've never heard of that place."

A loving mother getting her son all fixed up for college; rushing up to the Bursar's window much excited: "Is this Mr. Earnshaw, the Bursar? I want a room on first floor of Bostwick."

Mr. Earnshaw (coolly): "I'm sorry, Madam, but we only allow young men to room in Bostwick during the winter term."

Freshman Lockhart (after matriculating): "Who was the lady in the Bazzar's office?"

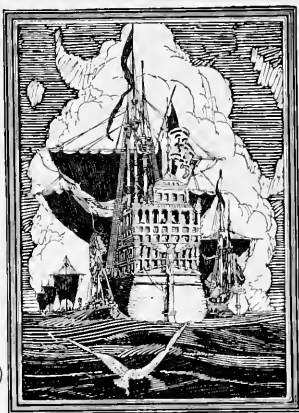

Barney Walker and Hobart Morton rode a side-door pullman to Raleigh for the Meredith B. Y. P. U. social. Special stops at Neuse and Millbrook caused their special to arrive in Raleigh a bit late. On leaving the car they saw a dorky and hailed him.

Walker: "Uh! Say friend, which is the nearest way up town?"

Gentleman of Color: "Can't say as I knows Boss; I came in on the same train wid ye."

The new and unusual—that sparkling reality which is known as the life of each school year—is caught and held forever within the pages of Bureau built annuals. The ability to assist in making permanent such delightful bits of class spontaneity rests in an organization of creative artists guided by some 17 years of College Annual work, which experience is the knowledge of balance and taste and the fitness of doing things well. In the finest year books of American Colleges the sincerity and genuineness of Bureau Engraving quality instantly impresses one. They are class records that will live forever.

A Few Words in Ending ~

To the student body at large we wish to express our deepest gratitude for the loyalty to the college publications as you expressed it in supporting the Publications Fee. We feel it a distinct honor to have been privileged to put out the last HOWLER to be strictly under student supervision. As much as we desired the fee, we wish that the same results could have been accomplished without sacrificing complete student control of the publications.

We heartily appreciate the co-operation most of the students have shown, and we sincerely hope that we have fulfilled our promises to you of a better book at a reduced cost.

To Mr. Earnshaw, the Bursar, we especially extend our gratitude for your efficient aid in helping to collect the Student Publications Fee. Also to the members of the Student Council, we appreciate your efforts in our behalf, and regret having drawn you into any embarrassing situation.

As we distribute these volumes to you all our worries and hard work go with them, and if you enjoy this publication we will count all our time as worthily spent and share your enjoyment to the fullest.

We wish here to acknowledge the constant spirit of co-operation of our printers, The Observer Printing House, Inc., of Charlotte, N. C. Our photographic work this year by the White Studio was very capably handled.

Sincerely,

—THE STAFF.
